ELON MUSK RESTORES TWITTER ACCOUNTS OF JOURNALISTS

It comes after 59% respondents of an online poll voted to restore the handles now instead of a week later

NO RELIEF FOR SCRIBE WHO INVESTIGATED TESLA

Though most of the suspended accounts were restored by Saturday evening, those of some journalists, including Business Insider's Linette Lopez and former MSNBC anchor Keith Olbermann, weren't. Lopez had published a series of articles between 2018 and 2021 highlighting alleged safety lapses at Tesla, which had angered Musk | P12

Bilkis loses one fight against 11 convicts in SC

Court dismisses plea to review May 13 order asking Gujarat to decide on their remission

SHRUTI KAKKAR @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court has dismissed a plea filed by gangrape survivor Bilkis Bano seeking a review of the top court's May 13 verdict directing the Gujarat government to consider the premature release of the convicts under the state's remission policy, which doesn't prohibit the remission of rape, gangrape or murder convicts.

Bano had argued that the policy of Maharashtra, where the trial was held, would apply. A special CBI court in Mumbai had on January 21, 2008 sentenced the 11 convicts to life imprisonment. Their conviction was subsequently upheld by the Bombay High Court and the Supreme Court.

"In our opinion, there appears no error apparent on the face of record which may call for review of the judgement dated May 13, 2022... The review petition is accordingly dismissed," said a bench comprising judges Ajay Rastogi and Vikram Nath.

However, Bano's legal options are not over. She had filed two petitions, one of which has now been rejected. The other petition challenging release of the 11 convicts is still pending.

The SC is also already seized of a bunch of PILs filed by CPM leader Subhashini Ali, journalist Revati Laul, former vice-chancellor of Lucknow University Roop Rekha Verma and Trinamool MP Mahua Moitra against the release of the convicts.

Bano was 20 years and five months pregnant when she was gangraped and seven members of her family were massacred during the 2002 Gujarat riots.

All 11 convicts walked out of jail on August 15 after the Gujarat government allowed their premature release under its remission policy.

CUP OF ECSTASY AWAITS FINAL CALL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

AFTER four weeks, it all comes down to this. France v. Argentina for the right to be crowned world champions for the third time. To be honest, even in this World Cup that has seemingly produced surprises and shocks every other day, the identity of the two finalists isn't.

France have long replaced Brazil as talent hub of world football — they have reached five of the last 11 major finals they have competed in including in three WC finals since 1998. Thanks to immigration and football being a way of life for youngsters coming into France, a robust talent ID backed by one of the best footballing cultures at youth level, they have had no problems in producing a conveyor belt of talent that's the envy of the world.

Argentina haven't had an explosion of talent like France has had but they have a solid base and continuity. As skipper, Lionel Messi, has become more vocal while coach, Lionel Scaloni, has instilled plenty of belief. The side were on a 36-match unbeaten run when they landed in Qatar. Sure, they suffered a setback against Saudi Arabia but that belief and trust did not evaporate. There is also a sense of destiny in the way they have played.

Messi, in what is likely to be his last international competition, has rallied the troops and the players have responded to him. They have been running on fumes, physically and mentally exhausting themselves knowing full well a victory for them is also a win for Messi. A World Cup title is the only one missing from his overbrimming list of achievements. There is some legacy at stake for France too. They suffered lots of criticism after failing to live up expectations at last year's Euros. So, they have buckled down. Now, they are 90 minutes away from becoming the first since that famed 1958-62 Brazil team to achieve a repeat.

The match itself is likely to be a contrast of styles — France will be patient and content even without having the ball for large periods while Argentina will likely press more and be more vertical — but the match itself is too close to call.

Match live at 8.30pm | P15

AI denies boarding to poodle, family's vacay goes for toss

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

BENGALURU-based HR professional Sachin Shenoy's year-end trip to Punjab and Himachal Pradesh with his family and pet dog went completely haywire, after an Air India pilot refused to allow the poodle to board the flight. This, despite Fluffy being declared 'Fit to Fly' by the airline crew at the airport, and issued a Boarding Pass.

The dog, Fluffy, with her boarding pass at KIA in Bengaluru

Sachin Shenoy, wife Uma and daughter Aarya left their house in Varthur at 11.20am Saturday for their 5.10pm Air India flight (AI 503) to New Delhi. The distraught family returned home at 10.30pm with Fluffy and their baggage, and decided to cancel their 12-day vacation. It included Uma's birthday celebrations on December 25 at Dalhousie. The family had spent over Rs 4 lakh on travel and hotel bookings.

Shenoy told TNIE, "We had booked the tickets three months ago. I was constantly in touch with Air India staff on call and mail to discuss our 18-month-old pet. We have taken our poodle with us on many road trips, and never encountered problems anywhere. I was repeatedly told Air India is a pet-friendly airline, and I could take Fluffy in the cabin with me. So I booked through Air India," he explained. P2

Some GST offences decriminalised

MONIKA YADAV @New Delhi

THE GST Council on Saturday decided to decriminalise certain offences and doubled the threshold for launching prosecution under the tax law from ₹1 crore to ₹2 crore. It, however, retained the limit at ₹1 crore for fake invoicing. The offences of preventing an officer from discharging his duties, tampering of material evidence, and failure to supply information have now been decriminalised.

The Council's 48th meeting however, avoided discussions on key issues such as taxation on casinos, online gaming, horse-racing and discussion on GST Tribunals. Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said only eight out of the 15 agenda items could be taken up due to paucity of time. She said no new taxes have been brought in. On the compensation cess on SUVs, the Council clarified that a higher rate of 22% cess is applicable to motor vehicles fulfilling all four conditions — it is popularly known as SUV, has engine capacity exceeding 1,500 cc, length exceeding 4,000 mm and a ground clearance of 170 mm or above.

The Council also said that 'no claim bonus' offered by insurance firms is an admissible deduction for valuation of insurance service and does not attract GST. It said the incentive paid to banks by the government under the scheme for promotion of RuPay debit cards and low-value BHIM-UPI transactions are in the nature of subsidy and, thus, not taxable.

BMTC digital ticketing system soon

AKNISREE KARTHIK @ Bengaluru

COMMUTERS no longer need to carry coins while boarding BMTC buses. Starting December 23, the Bengaluru Metropolitan Transport Corporation (BMTC) is all set to roll out a UPI-based ticketing system. Passengers can also use their credit and debit cards to buy tickets. The transport corporation has said that tickets will be generated only for a successful transaction and in case of a technical error or a failed transaction, a physical ticket will have to be purchased by paying cash.

Speaking to TNSE, BMTC Director (IT) Surya Sen said, "We have procured Electronic Ticketing Machines (ETM) to roll out the UPI-based ticketing system. If all goes as planned, commuters can avail this service from December 23 onwards."

BMTC conductors will feed the destination name into the ETMs. The fare will be calculated automatically and a QR code will be generated. Commuters have to scan the QR code using their UPIs like Google Pay and Phone Pe and pay the amount. Purushothaman, a plumber, who regularly travels on BMTC buses, said, "It's a welcome move as we have got used to digital transactions as we don't have to keep running to ATMs to withdraw cash".

FIRST ALL-CIVILIAN TRIP

Meet the Indian star reaching for the moon

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

JAPANESE entrepreneur, billionaire Yusaku Maezawa last weekend announced the 'dream crew' for the first all civilian mission to the moon - 'dearMoon' which includes Indian actor Dev Joshi of 'Balveer' fame among the eight people.

This is the first civilian mission to the moon, planned to take place sometime in the last quarter of 2023. The rocket developed by Elon Musk's SpaceX will make a week-long journey to the moon, orbit it without landing on the surface, and return to earth.

In 2018, Maezawa purchased eight seats aboard the rocket, planning to give an opportunity to as many talented individuals from across the world. Dev was one of the eight selected.

Dev is barely able to hold his excitement at being shortlisted for the dearMoon mission. "It is a landmark project and being a part of this crew makes me feel really proud and thrilled! Also, being the youngest person of the crew and only Indian on the team, this feels like a responsibility. I am glad to embrace it representing my generation and my country," said Dev in an exclusive chat with The New Sunday Express.

Dev, while speaking on making it through the selection process — for which the organisers had received more than one million applications from 249 countries and regions — said the process was "very exciting and a journey in-itself. We had many interviews, meetings, and phases of medical assessments to clear. Also, I met Mr Yusaku Maezawa during the final phases and we had some really fun conversations."

The actor said he applied for the dearMoon project, as it was really appealing to him. "I have always been excited about space and related updates. I was shooting on my sets of 'Baalveer Returns,' when I saw the announcement of this project". P10

The 28-acre Somanahalli Lake at Kanakapura got a new lease of life thanks to the efforts of Revathi Kamath

Landscape artist and homemaker Revathi Kamath took on a remarkable task: to revive Somanahalli Lake

The lake lives again

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

At 60, many citizens would be content to slip into a peaceful retired life, pottering around the house, surrounded by grandchildren. Not so 63-year-old Revathi Kamath, a resident of Bannerghatta Road in Bengaluru South, who has been busy giving a new lease of life to the 28-acre Somanahalli Lake along Kanakapura Road.

Revathi, a homemaker, developed an interest in landscaping in 1994, which led her to plant saplings and work with creepers, greens and flora.

On a visit to a friend in Somanahalli village in 2019, Revathi spotted some spare land and decided to plant saplings. She approached Somanahalli Gram Panchayat president Muniraj Gowda for permission, and later, she and her team planted native species like banyan, peepal, neem, jamun, jackfruit and others. It was during this exercise that she stumbled across the fact that the saplings could not be watered from the nearby lake, as it was dying.

Upon investigation, she found that the Raja canal, which was 3.5km long and 60ft wide, was blocked, resulting in the lake being deprived of fresh water from the canal. "There were encroachments on the drain as well as the lake area. I took the help of the village president and cleared the encroachments. There was no construction as such, only some fences had come up. I brought in four JCBs and cleared the encroachments, which extended over a few acres. Later, silt was lifted for six months. Two islands of over 30ft height were constructed inside the lake area, and now, for the past two seasons, rain water is entering the lake. For the first time in several decades, water is reaching Suvarnamukhi, a tributary of the river Cauvery, from Somanahalli lake," said Revathi Kamath.

> I had planted 4,000 saplings here, and every month, I spent about Rs 50,000 to water them and care for them, for three years. Now, the saplings have grown and the entire lake area looks beautiful
> — Revathi Kamath

Villagers here had told Revathi that about 50 years ago, they would use lake water for drinking and cooking -- a far cry from its condition now. Somehow, it had to be restored to its pristine self. She said her work as a landscaper helped her understand the needs of the area, and get the development done at a cost of Rs 45lakh. For this, she also got help from her two sons, who are in the stock trading line.

The hard work paid off: Somanahalli Lake is brimming with water and buzzing with chirpy birds. "I had planted 4,000 saplings here, and every month, I spent about Rs 50,000 to water them and care for them, for three years. Now, the saplings have grown and the entire lake area looks beautiful," said Revathi.

She pointed out a very pertinent fact -- had the Raja canal not been cleaned up and desilted, the entire stretch of Kanakapura Road would have flooded, just as Ramanagara had, during the recent spell of heavy rain.

HER MITE FOR SOCIETY

Revathi is a trained performing veena player. During one of her performances at Yathiraj Mutt at Melkote, mutt volunteers approached her for help to build a cow shelter. She volunteered to build the shed on her own, by pressing her team of labourers who worked on landscaping. "The mutt has 200 cows, and around 100 cows need shelter. We helped them build a shelter, string up electric lights, mosquito nets and rubber mats. This is a small contribution from my side to society," said Revathi.

UNDERSTANDING ECOLOGY

Revathi Kamath has completed some big landscaping projects, which include the house of Albert Hieronimus, managing director, Motor Industries Co Ltd (MICO), besides projects that included reputed builders and foreign architects like Beltcolins, Peridian, Site Concept International and Jurong. Landscaping drew her to plant saplings in industrial areas, to help workers breathe clean air. She has now decided to develop two lakes and plant 25,000 saplings every year.

Looking at the broken doors, window panes and cracked ceiling, she helped in its renovation and also collaborated with Mahalakshmi Parthasarathy, an educationist, to help the children learn better English and speak confidently.

WASTE SEGREGATION

'2bin1bag' waste disposal needs better enforcement

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FIVE years of the Karnataka High Court mandating '2bin1bag' waste segregation method has given positive results, but there is still a long way to go in terms of enforcement at both the government and public level.

The Solid Waste Management Round Table (SWMRT), a Bengaluru-based NGO, had led the way in establishing the concept of segregation in the Solid Waste Management (SWM) system in Karnataka. The next step is to implement the same across India, said experts.

'2bin1bag' is the concept of segregating waste in a red bin (sanitary and toxic waste), green bin (organic waste) and a white bag (recyclable waste) to help improve the waste management system.

Soumya Vishwanathan, an SWMRT member, explained that waste can only be handled if it is segregated. She added that colours were chosen for separate bins for illiterate people also to easily understand which bin is to be used for which category.

Preeti Maheshwari, working extensively in the area of waste management, said the initiative has seen a positive response, and around 60 per cent of the population segregates waste in Karnataka. However, much needs to be done in terms of enforcing the law or penalising authorities when waste is not segregated.

She added that often people do not segregate waste, stating that a single person's effort won't make a difference, or due to lack of interest. Hence, if they are penalised and stringent action taken against breaking the law, people will automatically become more cautious.

Maheswari said that several composting centres, waste processing and segregation plants are doing a great job at segregating waste. Creating awareness is the only way to ensure that the concept is implemented countrywide, she added.

She predicted that the waste segregating industry will flourish in the upcoming years, which will be another reason for people to prefer segregated waste.

Police permission must for X'mas, NY parties

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH an aim to prevent any untoward incident from taking place, Bengaluru police commissioner C H Pratap Reddy has made obtaining police permission mandatory for organisers of New Year and Christmas parties.

The top cop held coordination meetings at his office on Infantry Road on Friday with representatives of hotels, clubs and other party organisers. He instructed them to obtain prior permission from the jurisdictional police and other civic agencies concerned. Organisers, while applying for permissions, have to explain in detail about the type of events they would be hosting. Parties without permission will not be allowed. Organisers have also strictly been instructed to ensure that drugs are not allowed at the events and to also ensure the safety of children and women.

The preventive measures made mandatory by the police commissioner include, frisking, ban on weapon even if it is licensed, installation of high-resolution CCTV cameras, power backup through UPS and generators, adequate light at the venues, criminal backgrounds of security guards and employees hired for the event to be checked, dial 112 or the jurisdictional police to inform about suspicious movement of people or any unclaimed object, tie-up with transport operators to ensure dropping women staff to their homes after the event, avoiding sale of tickets beyond capacity to avoid overcrowding, deployment of both male and female security guards and educating staff on good behaviour with participants.

The police commissioner also said that the organisers will be held responsible if a stampede or any other untoward incident takes place.

Decision on GST exemption at next meeting

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru:

SINCE there is exemption from GST for government organisations, deliberations are being held to extend the facility to government undertakings such as Bengaluru Bruhat Mahanagara Palike(BBMP) and Bengaluru Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB), Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said here on Saturday.

"A decision will be taken at the next meeting on what kind of services are to be given concession, with a few amendments," he added, briefing the press after participating in the 48th GST meeting, chaired virtually by Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman.

According to official sources, giving GST exemption to all suppliers of urban and rural local bodies was also mooted at the meeting.

Meanwhile, Bommai said a decision to set up the GST appellate tribunal to deal with related cases will also be made at the next meeting.

"Cases are coming up in the high court, and if a tribunal is set up, it will help in speedy redressal that will also bring in revenue to the government," he observed.

Pilot objected to cage and muzzle of pet

AS per rules, the pet needs to be brought to the airport and issued a 'Fit to Fly' certificate. The pet has to be less than 5kg. "The fitness was okayed by an airline staffer, not a vet. All of us, including Fluffy, were issued boarding passes. I paid Rs 4,000 for her pass alone. As we waited at boarding gate 17, the staff there told us we could board the flight if we left the pet behind! Or my wife and daughter could board the flight, and leave the pet with me! The pilot was not okay with taking the pet on board, was the reason given. We are all terribly upset over the whole incident, particularly my 12-year-old daughter," Shenoy said.

The family had spent Rs 58,000 for their cancelled trip to Delhi, including Rs 15,000 as excess baggage. "After we were denied boarding, we had to wait another three hours at the airport for Air India to retrieve our check-in baggage and hand it over to us. We could leave the airport only after 8pm."

Shenoy took a video of their plight and released it on social media. Air India responded thus on Twitter: "The Commander of the flight was not fully satisfied with the cage and muzzle of the pet, which is why he could not allow it to be carried in the cabin. Our laid down Policy for the Carriage of Pets on Domestic Flights clearly mentions that 'pet carriage is subject to the approval of the commander of the flight'."

Air India later tweeted that as a goodwill gesture, the family would be permitted to fly with the same tickets on Sunday, and asked them to accept the offer.

The family said that no one from Air India contacted them about this arrangement, and the responses were put out on Twitter following social media outrage. "If they genuinely wanted to help, they should have reached out to us personally," he added. "I had made bookings at ITC in Amritsar, Dev Bhoomi in Dharmashala and a cottage at Dalhousie and Chamba. I have started the process of cancelling them all now. I spent nearly Rs 4 lakh on all of them, and have lost my money as I had paid in advance. A pre-booked car was waiting at Amritsar airport to pick us up," Shenoy said.

Ajay Joe from Delhi tweeted to Air India: "Your group chairman Ratan Tata is a dog lover" with a shot of Tata with his pets.

Votergate: 4 BBMP revenue officials get bail

Bengaluru: The four Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) revenue officials, who were arrested in connection with the voter data tampering case, were granted bail by a trial court on Saturday. Revenue Officer Chandrashekar K (Mahadevapura), Suhail Ahmed (Shivajinagar), Bheemashankar (Chickpet) and Assistant Revenue Officer Mahesh (RR Nagar) allegedly issued booth level officer cards to the staffers of the NGO which is against the law. After the matter came to light and created a controversy, the Palike placed the four under suspension and later the Halasuru Gate police arrested them. "Since the bail order came in the evening, the officials will be released once the procedure is completed," an officer said. According to officials, the four must not leave the city without prior permission and cooperate with the investigation. ENS

M'luru blast accused shifted to Victoria hosp

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru/Mangaluru

MOHAMMAD Shariq, the prime suspect in the Mangaluru cooker bomb blast case, has been shifted to Victoria Hospital in Bengaluru for further treatment. Shariq was undergoing treatment at Fr Muller's Hospital in Mangaluru ever since he was hospitalised after the blast which took place at Naguri. "He was shifted to Bengaluru on Saturday morning as per the recommendation of the doctors and the authorities," said City Police Commissioner N Shashi Kumar.

Shariq had suffered 45% burns and after his condition improved, the city police had questioned him and the case was handed over to the National Investigation Agency (NIA). Now, as he will be treated at Victoria Hospital, NIA will continue to question him.

Dr K T Ramesh, Head of Department, Plastic Surgery and Burns, Victoria Hospital told TNIE, "Mohammed Shariq was admitted to the burns ward on Saturday morning. After assessing his health condition and the treatment he has been given so far, the next course of treatment will be decided." Dr Ramesh, however, refused to divulge more details. Security has been beefed up at the hospital.

The low-intensity blast had occurred inside an autorickshaw on November 19 at Naguri on the outskirts of Mangaluru, injuring the driver Purushotham Poojary and the passenger and prime accused Shariq.

The FIR registered by the NIA has stated that they recovered a 5-litre pressure cooker, 3 nine volt batteries, a damaged circuit and other material required to prepare an IED, from the blast spot. During the investigation, it was found that Shariq had stayed at a lodge in Coimbatore and he was in contact with Jameesha Mubeen, a suicide bomber of the ISIS. The investigation agencies had claimed that Shariq had links with a global terror organisation. He, along with his accomplice Maaz Muneer, another accused in a terror graffiti case in Mangaluru, had attended a training camp in Madikeri. During the probe, it was also found he had received financial support from abroad in bitcoins.

So far, there is no clear information as to where Shariq was heading to plant the bomb and whether he was a lone wolf or had arrived in the city along with his associates.

Min: Collecting data on health will help curate effective programmes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

Stressing on the need to collect and digitise data from the healthcare sector, Health and Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar on Saturday said this will help to curate appropriate programmes for various diseases and illnesses.

He was speaking at conferences organised by Private Hospitals and Nursing Home Association (PHANA), Common Health Association for Health and Disability (COMHAD) and the Research Study for Study of Diabetes in India-Karnataka Chapter (RSSDI).

Sudhakar urged PHANA to work towards ensuring accessible and affordable healthcare. The minister also addressed the lack of transparency in the private medical sector and said the association must ensure to digitise all data and share it with the government. "Only if the government has proper data can they come forward with effective healthcare programmes, both at the state and the national level," he said.

He also suggested working towards setting up more mid-sized hospitals (around 100 beds) and promised to work towards simplifying renewal processes and even extend the renewal time to three years.

Talking about mental health illnesses, neurological disorders and prevalence of diabetes in India, Sudhakar said neurological disorders contribute to 70 per cent of childhood disabilities.

He also pointed out that Karnataka has progressed immensely in the past 7-8 years, but still lags behind maternal mortality rate or infant mortality when compared to the neighbouring states like Kerala and Tamil Nadu.

A doctor at the RSSDI conference stated that unlike Covid, diabetes is a slow poison and if it is not controlled timely, it will cause more deaths than Covid did.

The minister suggested taking a prevention-oriented approach towards building better healthcare. In case of non communicable diseases, the medical department has increased screenings substantially especially India is called the 'diabetes capital of the world'.

Compensate passenger for injuries due to defect in bus, HC tells KSRTC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

OBSERVING that filing of a 'B' report by police, stating that the driver was not found guilty of rash and negligent driving, will not absolve KSRTC of liability, the Karnataka High Court directed the transport corporation to compensate a commuter for causing injuries. It cited the reason as 'gross negligence', for assigning a bus with a mechanical defect.

Justice Hanchate Sanjeevkumar passed the order while allowing the appeal filed by P Chandraprabha from Kunthanahalli village of T Narasipura taluk of Mysuru district, against dismissal of the claim by Motor Vehicles Accident Tribunal.

Chandraprabha, a 30-year-old teacher at the Government Primary School, suffered a fracture in her right leg and hospitalised for 12 days. "The claimant is entitled to compensation of ₹1,30,000, with interest at a rate of 6% per annum from the date of petition till the date of realisation," the court said, quashing the Tribunal's order.

The Tribunal had rejected the claim on the ground that police filed a 'B' report against the bus driver, and the claimant neither produced the report nor challenged it.

"The claimant was constrained to alight from the bus after the engine caught fire. The act of tort is to be considered... due to negligence of assigning a bus which has a mechanical defect by the KSRTC," the court observed.

The claimant was travelling from HD Kote to Mysuru after work at 5.30pm on August 22, 2012. The driver was driving the bus at a reckless speed. The engine of the bus caught fire, and when the passengers were alighting, the driver moved the bus and the claimant fell, sustaining injuries to her right leg.

Councillor, three others trapped by Lokayukta police

Bengaluru: Lokayukta police on Saturday trapped four accused, including a councillor and the husbands of three councillors of Gauribidanur Municipal Corporation, while allegedly accepting a bribe of Rs 20 lakh to issue a khata for 133 sites developed by the complainant. The accused are Gopinath, councillor, Anantharaju, husband of Roopa, who is chairperson of the municipal corporation, Mylari, former councillor and husband of a sitting councillor, and Manjunath, husband of a present councillor. The complainant, Manjunatha Reddy, had bought eight acres of land from farmers and developed it into a layout. He formed 133 sites, for which khatas are yet to be issued from the corporation. When he approached the corporation for the khatas, the accused allegedly demanded Rs 40 lakh -- Rs 5 lakh per acre -- to issue khatas for the sites. Unable to pay up, the complainant approached the Lokayukta police, who laid a trap and caught the accused red-handed, accepting Rs 20 lakh of the total Rs 40 lakh.

2 drug peddlers nabbed in separate cases

ENS @ Bengaluru

IN separate cases, the Central Crime Branch (CCB) sleuths have arrested two drug peddlers. A drug peddler, disguised as a Swiggy delivery executive, was arrested when he was transporting drugs in a Swiggy delivery kit. He was earlier working as a delivery executive.

Another peddler was working as a screener for a private airways cargo at KIA. This accused claims to have been selling drugs to make fast money. The arrests have been made in Whitefield and Yelahanka police station limits.

The peddler, who was disguised as a delivery agent, is Abijith, a native of Bihar, from whom the sleuths recovered LSD strips, ganja and other items worth around ₹4 lakh after arresting him from Bihar. He was working for another peddler in based in Bihar.

Another peddler is Shibu T Chacko, from whom MDMA crystals, LSD strips and a mobile phone worth ₹5 lakh were recovered. He was working for a Nigerian peddler.

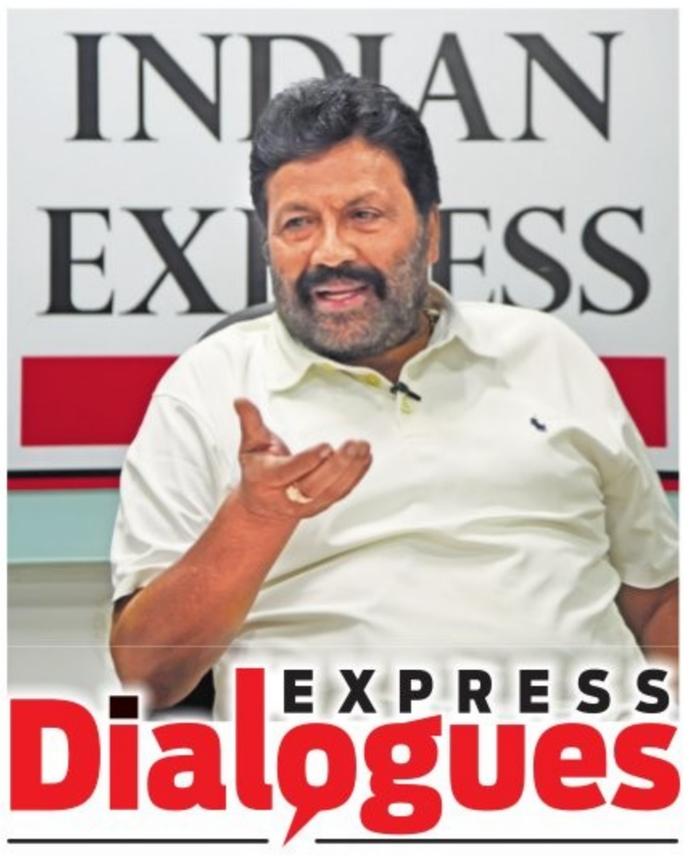
'FARMERS SHOULD FEEL AGRI DEPT IS WITH THEM IN THEIR FIELDS'



TEAM TNSE

THE Karnataka government is taking several steps to help farmers increase their income by encouraging them to take up processing, branding and marketing of their produce. During an interaction with editors and staff of The New Sunday Express, Agriculture Minister BC Patil, a police officer-turned-actor-turned-politician, explains the measures taken by the government, and his initiatives to attract youngsters to farming and agriculture. Excerpts:

What are the measures taken to double farmers' incomes?
We have taken several initiatives. All these years, farmers were only encouraged to grow crops, but now we are also emphasizing on processing, branding and marketing the produce, as well as additional works or sub-professions. Prime Minister Narendra Modi wanted to have 10,000 Farmer Producer Organisations (FPOs) across the country. Karnataka alone has 1,200 FPOs. About 300 to 1,000 farmers join to create one FPO. We provide them loans and subsidies. We intend to make farmers grow, process, pack, brand and market. This will increase their profit margins substantially. It will also prevent middlemen. Farmers are also trained at Central Food Technological Research Institute (CFTRI) and they have become entrepreneurs. We are also stressing on reducing the cost of cultivation so that farmers' incomes increase.

When I took charge as minister, my priority was to instil confidence in farmers. I wanted to make agriculture an industry. People, especially youths, should come forward to take up agriculture.

What were the reasons for farmers' suicides?
When we started assessing the cause of suicides, we found that Mandya region, which has sufficient water, reported more suicides compared to Kolar, which has less or no water sources. In Mandya, farmers were not adopting comprehensive agriculture, and were mostly growing sugarcane and paddy, while in Kolar, farmers had taken up comprehensive agriculture. They were into growing multiple crops. In 2015, there were 95 farmer suicides in Mandya, and 15 in Kolar. We realised there is a need to create awareness. We started the 'One Day With Farmers' initiative to take the department to farmlands. If we go to them, they will come close to us. I started this initiative with Mandya. Farmers should not feel the agriculture department is only at Vidhana Soudha or Vikasa Soudha in Bengaluru, but with them at their farms.

What steps are being taken to help farmers' children?
We increased reservation for farmers' children in agriculture colleges to 50% from 40%. With that, we were able to give 433 more seats for children of farmers. The same was announced in the budget. When Basavaraj Bommai became chief minister, the state government initiated 'Raitha Vidya Nidhi', the first of its kind in India. This is a programme to give scholarships to children of farmers. Last year, more than 10 lakh students benefited under this scheme. It has been extended to children of agriculture labourers from this year, where an additional 6 lakh students will benefit.

You involved farmers in crop surveys. How did it go?
We started 'Nannaa Bele, Namma Hakku' (Our Crops, Our Rights) where farmers were involved in crop surveys. In Karnataka, there are 2.10 crore agriculture plots of various dimensions. In the first year (2020), farmers surveyed 86 lakh plots. Earlier, this was challenged by the e-governance department as they had seen only 3,000 farmers surveyed in 2017. Today, farmers use smartphones. We were successful.

The sale of sub-standard seeds and fertilizers is a major concern. What is being done to tackle it?
Earlier, there were only two vigilance divisions in Karnataka, which we increased to four. We treated it as a police wing. In the last three years, Rs 29.04 crore worth of items, including sub-standard seeds, fertilizers and other items were seized, and is a record so far. Of these, 343 cases are in the courts, and licences of many agencies were cancelled. It is a serious issue as such items come from other states, including Andhra Pradesh. We have collected close to Rs 20 lakh as penalty. This also helped prevent farmers' suicides. Innocent farmers were cheated with substandard seeds and fertilizers, and would not get yield when they used the seeds.

What about shortage of staff in the department?
There is a shortage of 55 per cent in the agriculture department. Most of them are field-level officers who extend our schemes to beneficiaries. We are taking measures to fill the vacancies. We are taking 6,000 diploma graduates for surveying under contract, one at each gram panchayat.

The year 2023 has been declared 'International Year for Millets'. What is the role of your department?
We are organising an International Trade Fair in January 2023 to create awareness on growing millets. In the 1960s, we were stressing on food security, now we need nutrition security. Our food is becoming poisonous. To prevent this, we need to bring awareness about millets. We also need to create a market for millets at the international level.

Crop insurance has been an issue as there were allegations that companies were making profit, leaving farmers in the lurch...
Companies made a profit and incurred losses as well. From 2014-15, the release of claims was pending. After I became minister, the agriculture commissioner started holding meetings every Friday. I hold meetings once or twice a month. We have been following up with the companies. In June 2022 alone, Rs 600 crore worth of claims were released, and we managed to trace the farmers who were missing after paying premiums, and ensured that Rs 99 crore, which was in the escrow account, was transferred to farmers.

There was a proposal to merge the sericulture department with the agriculture department, and also opposition to it. What is your take?
It is a good move, as we can say with pride that agriculture, sericulture and horticulture are all nothing but agriculture. It is good if all are merged. A farmer is a farmer, whatever the crops he cultivates. During the Covid-19 pandemic, when I went around the districts, farmers who produced vegetables, fruits and flowers used to ask for solutions to their problems, and as agriculture minister, I couldn't say it was none of my business. We cannot bifurcate farmers, so a merger is good. In the Central government, it is under one umbrella as the Department of Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare, which includes Agriculture Produce Marketing Committees as well. The cabinet sub-committee has been studying the merger in Karnataka.

What is the status of the initiative on natural farming in Karnataka?
We have been implementing the CM's natural farming scheme, in which every agriculture university will identify 1,000 hectares of land to demonstrate organic farming, with no use of pesticides and chemical fertilisers. We cannot straightaway suggest to farmers to switch to natural farming, unless we demonstrate its benefits. During the '60s, there was a deficit of food, and developed countries used to send us food. Now after the green revolution, we are exporting produce. So we should look at natural and sustainable farming to reduce chemicals, as some progressive farmers have showcased that it can also be profitable. Farmers should look at long-term instead of short-term goals.

What is being done to provide cold storage facilities to help farmers?
The purpose of the Agriculture Infrastructure Fund is to create infrastructure to store perishable goods, so that farmers can sell them when they get good prices. We have 32 cold storage facilities, and are constructing another 13 such facilities.

The Centre withdrew farm laws a long time back. Will Karnataka follow suit?
See, it has become a prestige issue. Earlier, if farmers took their produce outside APMC markets, a squad used to catch them for eluding tax and slap penalties. Now, it's One Nation, One Market. Karnataka farmers can sell their produce wherever they want, whether it's Delhi, Mumbai or Goa, as even the checkposts are freed. No real farmers are staging protests. Some organisations representing them insist on their withdrawal here because the Centre has withdrawn the laws. There is no way of withdrawing them in the state.

What can North Karnataka expect from the legislative session starting in Belagavi from December 19?
Earlier, North Karnataka was neglected. People meeting a minister was rare. Now, after Suvarna Vidhana Soudha came up in Belagavi, people have a sense of belonging to the state. Assembly sessions also give a feeling of oneness. More than the expectations, what the BJP government implemented on the development side will be put forth before people, using the session as a platform.

Indian Institute of Science (IISc) has developed an alternative for cold storage by developing vegetable and fruit dryers. Are you taking help or consulting IISc to use technologies to help farmers?
Yes, we are doing it. Under the RKVY (Rashtriya Krishi Vikas Yojana), we are setting up a Centre of Excellence in Dharwad, by investing Rs 52 crore. Apart from that, we entered into an MoU with a firm last year to set up Centres of Excellence. One such centre will be started at Bengaluru University on a pilot basis. After that, six centres will start to help farmers use technology.

Many professionals are also taking to farming.....
In cities, we have pub culture, and I want to make it agriculture. Now anyone can buy land after our government brought in an amendment to the Land Act. Professionals working in cities can buy two to three acres of land and employ people to do the work. They can visit the place on weekends to get fresh air, and it will also improve their health. We don't want pub culture... we want agriculture.

Is this idea inspired by a movie?
No, I'm a son of a farmer. I have my own ideas.

Away from agriculture, how are the prospects for BJP in the 2023 assembly elections since BJP is not going to polls under Yediyurappa's leadership?
Yediyurappa is in the forefront, and we are with him. We are confident of winning over 140 seats in 2023. Development is the major agenda and that is the purpose of the CM's Jan Sankalpa Yatra. People have been gathering in huge numbers for the Yatra.

BC Patil donned many roles: a real cop, an actor, and now politics. Which one did you like the most?
Only Lord Shiva has three eyes, but for us, two eyes are equally important. I enjoyed my job in the police department. As an artist, the appeal was universal, but there were ups and downs as both loss and profit happened. As a police officer, the jurisdiction of work was a station. After becoming an MLA, the scope to serve people is wider. In a taluk, about 48 government departments come under our purview. Becoming a minister is still a big canvas. But I enjoyed all the fields I ventured into.

Are you happy with the portfolio?
Initially, they had given me the forest portfolio, but I fought with then CM Yediyurappa and got agriculture. As the son of a farmer, I felt I could help farmers.

Do you have a free hand?
Absolutely! Both BS Yediyurappa and Basavaraj Bommai gave me the liberty to function as a minister.

Bommai announces ₹1 crore on his first village stay in Bada

PRAMODKUMAR VAIDYA
@ Hubballi

FOR the first time, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai took part in a village stay programme organised by the Revenue Department on Saturday in Bada village of his home constituency, Shiggaon, and announced Rs 1 crore for the development of villages wherever Revenue Minister R Ashoka organises such a programme.

CM Basavaraj Bommai meets children in Shiggaon on Saturday | EXPRESS

Recalling the support and cooperation of villagers that was extended to the government for conducting the village stay programme, Bommai announced additional financial assistance to bring about a perceptible change in the lives of the villagers. He also announced that school goers in his constituency will be given a bus with public-public participation.

Although he had been considering helping children, Bommai said that it was being implemented on a pilot basis from his constituency, and added that he has already instructed North Western Road Transport Corporation officials. He also assured people of his constituency that tap water connections will be provided by April, and compensation by month-end to for damaged to houses in rain.

Elaborating on achievements of his government, he said they have emphasised on improving education, health and irrigation facilities over the last four years. Children have been provided financial assistance under the Vidyanidhi scheme for their education, so that they come out of their traditional occupations. On the occasion, 30,000 people formally received benefits from various schemes and programmes implemented by the departments.

An emotional CM

Seeing the affection and support, Bommai was visibly moved, and said, "I'll always be indebted to you. Because of your blessings I am able to take decisions for the welfare and development of the entire state."

CM encouraging moral policing, says Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

CLP leader Siddaramaiah on Saturday condemned the increase in moral policing incidents in coastal Karnataka, and said strict action be taken against the perpetrators.

Blaming CM Basavaraj Bommai for a rise in moral policing cases, Siddaramaiah said that the CM has been encouraging such acts by his statement that "every action will have a reaction".

"The job of the police is to maintain law and order and deal with miscreants. Interfering in law and order is condemnable," he said.

Since August this year, eight moral policing cases have been reported, with five cases in December alone.

'BJP twisting statement'

Reacting to KPCC president DK Shivakumar's statement on the Mangaluru blast, Siddaramaiah said that Shivakumar had only claimed BJP was "misusing the cooker blast for political gains". "Did he say we support terrorism? Let the BJP act tough on terrorism and end it. What were they doing for eight years?" he said.

'I'm bigger Hindu than CT Ravi'

Speaking after participating in a mat Kabaddi tournament, Siddaramaiah said, "Communal agenda of the BJP should be defeated in the coastal region, and the Kabaddi tournament is a way to unite people. Congress has given a Constitution to the country and not BJP, who do politics based on caste and religion. The youth should consider everyone as Indians first, but talking about it, a bigot like CT Ravi calls me 'Siddaramulla Khan'. I am a bigger Hindu than CT Ravi, but I'm not a Hindu who hates other religions like he does."

He said that during the Congress regime, 7 kg of free rice used to be provided, which has reduced to 5kg now. "Why did you stop that Mr Bommai? The Food Security Act was introduced by the then PM Manmohan Singh. People are discussing about 40 per cent commission," he said.

Mother's touch: Anita paves way for son Nikhil to contest in Ramanagara

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

PUTTING an end to speculation, former chief minister HD Kumaraswamy's wife Anita Kumaraswamy on Saturday sacrificed the Ramanagara assembly constituency for her son Nikhil Kumaraswamy.

"For 2023 Assembly polls, my son Nikhil Kumaraswamy will be the candidate. I am confident people will accept him," announced an emotional Anita at a public rally in Ramanagara town's private old bus stand, where Nikhil, Kumaraswamy and other leaders were present to take part in the Pancharatna campaign.

During her address, Anita narrated the contributions of her family members including her husband Kumaraswamy and former prime minister HD Deve Gowda. "I too proved my mettle as MLA. I showed that a woman can also develop the constituency by securing adequate funds," she stated.

Kumaraswamy said that he was unaware of Anita's decision. However, the parents sought the blessings of Ramanagara voters. "The way you have saved me from evil forces for decades, I am sure Nikhil will win your hearts through his hardwork, and tackle the conspiracies hatched by his detractors," he said.

In 2008 bypolls, Anita contested from the Madhugiri Assembly constituency as a fallout of 'Operation Lotus' by BJP. The then JDS MLA from Madhugiri DC Gowrishankar had resigned, and his father C Chennigappa became the BJP candidate. The Gowda family fielded Anita to settle scores with Chennigappa, and she won. But she did not contest in consecutive polls to concentrate on family's business which includes running a television channel. In 2018, Kumaraswamy contested from both Ramanagara and Channapatna Assembly constituencies, and won both, but later, vacated Ramanagara for Anita, who emerged victorious

Nikhil debuted in poll fight by contesting from Mandya Lok Sabha seat in 2019 polls.

HDK to skip winter session

Kumaraswamy will skip the winter session of the legislature from Monday at Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi as he will be busy with the Pancharatna Yatra.

In his absence, senior party leader Bandeppa M Kashempur, MLA, Bidar South, will lead the party in the Assembly with Venkatarao Nadagouda, Sindhanur MLA, as the chief whip.

HC relief for Congress leaders in copyright case

Bengaluru: The Karnataka HC stayed further investigation on the FIR with the city police against three senior Congress leaders, including Rahul Gandhi, for allegedly using copyright soundtracks of KGF Chapter-2, on the social media account of the party and Bharat Jodo Yatra. Justice S Sunil Dutt Yadav passed the interim order after hearing the plea filed by Jairam Ramesh, general secretary of Congress Communication Publicity Media, Supriya Shrinate, chairperson of Social Media and Digital Platforms of the INC and Rahul Gandhi, MP, challenging the FIR by the MRT Music on November 4, 2022. "There would be a stay on all further investigation pursuant to the registration of FIR at Yeshwanthapura Police Station," Justice Yadav said. The petitioners contended the allegations in the FIR and the complaint do not prima facie constitute any offence under the IPC, Copyright Act and the IT Act. ENS

Probe will bring out truth, CM on PSI scam audio

Bengaluru: Congress MLA Priyank Kharge on Saturday released an audio clip of a telephonic conversation, purportedly between Home Minister Araga Jnanendra and a person claiming to have provided information about alleged irregularities in the recruitment of PSI. In the audio, the person questions the minister on when reexamination for recruitment of PSIs will be conducted, and the minister states they are yet to take a decision. The person claims he had provided information about the irregularities, and wanted to know why action was not taken against those involved. The minister responds that action is being taken, based on evidence. Responding to a question about the audio clip, CM Basavaraj Bommai said Priyank Kharge had not given a specific reply. "I don't have information about the audio, and the truth will come out through investigation," the CM said. ENS

Govt issues fresh order to pacify agitators against buffer-zone survey, asks LSGs to carry out awareness

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @T'Puram

IN a move to pacify protesters on the buffer-zone issue, the state government has come out with a slew of follow-up measures. It has asked local self governments (LSGs) to carry out an awareness programme regarding eco-sensitive zones (ESZs) and enable people, whose houses, farmland, or other buildings are included in the published satellite survey, to file their complaints in detail through the pro forma.

The government's decision is seen as a move to allay the concerns of the Catholic Church and high-range farmers' organisations. The church has dismissed the satellite survey as a farce. The current issue arose after the satellite map of the ESZ buffer zone was published on the government website. The details published on the website and the constructions identified in the satellite survey failed to add up. The government had decided on a one-kilometre buffer zone around protected forests, national parks and wildlife sanctuaries.

> The government should have approached the Forest Survey of India or the Survey of India for the satellite survey. The government has to have clarity in its action. It should take the people into confidence
> Forest official

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

It also decided on a zero buffer zone for populated areas. But the satellite survey carried out by the Kerala State Remote Sensing And Environment Centre (KSREC) was largely obscure and the incomplete reports are proving to be damaging for the government. "The government should have approached the Forest Survey of India or the Survey of India for the satellite survey," a forest official told TNIE on condition of anonymity "The Western Ghats Ecology Expert Panel (WGEEP) report and the ESZ are entirely two different things. The Supreme Court had said it would consider the state's recommendation as an ESZ area positively. So there is no need for such anguish. The government has to have clarity in its action. It should take the people into confidence," he added.

Meanwhile, the expert committee members, while dismissing the option of satellite survey by other institutes, pointed out that that could prove costly affair. It was also learned from a highly placed source that the state government's recommendation of a zero buffer zone in Wayand earlier had not gone well with the central ministry of environment and forests. However, a buffer zone proposal around the Chimmini Wild Life Sanctuary and Peechi in Thrissur and Eravikulam National Park in Munnar had been approved.

K'taka govt to give interest-free loans up to ₹2L to weavers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

STATE government on Saturday decided to give an interest-free loan of up to Rs 2 lakh to weavers, provide free power supply to power looms up to 5 HP on lines of Tamil Nadu and also give 50 per cent concession on the fixed charges.

In a meeting chaired by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, the government took several important decisions with regard to the demands of weavers. The government decided to chalk out a scheme to increase the subsidy to professional weavers' community from the existing 30 per cent to 50 per cent and extend the 'Nekar Sanman' scheme to those working in power looms.

The government also decided to issue Occupancy Certificates (OC) for weavers residing in weavers' settlements and to bring weaving at home under the cottage industry and exempt them from taking clearance from the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board.

It was also decided to fix the quantity of uniforms that can be supplied under the 'Vidya Vikas' scheme from the Karnataka Handloom and Power Loom Corporations and float tenders for the rest of the quantity.

The work order to this effect must be issued in December, stated a note issued by the Chief Minister's Office.

To support the weavers, the government also decided to buy 25 per cent of the uniforms required for various departments from the Karnataka Handloom Corporation.

A committee will be constituted to examine the details for extending all facilities provided to construction workers to those working in weaving units and take a decision before the presentation of the state budget.

Karnataka Handloom Development Corporation chairman Siddu Savadi said the decision to give up to Rs 2 lakh interest-free loan will help over one lakh weavers.

18 monkeys die in abandoned water tank

RAMKRISHNA BADSESHI
@Kalaburagi

IN a tragic incident, 18 monkeys died after falling accidentally in an abandoned overhead tank while 16 others were rescued at Halakarta village of Chittapur taluk

Speaking with Express, Executive Officer of Chittapur taluk Panchayat Neelaganga said that she came to know about the death of some of the monkeys on Friday late in the evening. The local people with the help of Grama Panchayat rescued 16 monkeys on Thursday and the carcasses of 18 monkeys were brought out from the overhead tank in an operation that took about 6 hours. Neelaganga said that the overhead tank in Halkarta village was about to be dismantled. On the backside of this overhead tank, there is a big neem tree. Perhaps, while playing, the monkeys might have jumped on the overhead tank and might have fallen in it as it was not properly covered.

The villagers heard shouting of the monkeys from overhead tank and started smelling foul smell on Thursday. Villagers and Grama Panchayat employees jointly succeeded in helping 15 monkeys in bringing them out by dropping a rope in the overhead tank. They were treated by a veterinary doctor. Another baby monkey was brought alive on Saturday morning.

Executive Officer of Chittapur Taluk Panchayat Neelaganga, Assistant Director of Veterinary Department, Range Forest Officer and Assistant Executive Engineer of Rural Drainage and Water Supply Department rushed to Halakarta village on Saturday morning and supervised rescue operation. In the operation that took place for about 6 hours, 1 baby monkey too was rescued and carcasses of 18 monkeys were brought out.

After conducting postmortem, the carcasses were buried. Before burying the rituals like offering "puja" to the monkeys were performed. As a precautionary measure, fogging has been done in Halakarta village and the health department has been kept in alert condition to avert possible health problems.

Javelin pierces neck, Odisha boy survives

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Balangir/Bhubaneswar

FOURTEEN-year-old Sadanand Meher, a student of Agalpur Boys' High School in Balangir district, on Saturday experienced what a 'close shave' meant. A five-and-half-feet long javelin passed right through his chin at around 10 am, but missed the most vital organ - the wind pipe, barely by centimetres. Even the blood vessels in the region remained unharmed.

The teenager was at the annual sports meet of the school when the javelin came out of nowhere and penetrated the pretracheal region of the neck.

As he sat in a state of shock and trauma, guardians of fellow students and school staff rushed to him. That he was saved by swift action of the Balangir district administration and team of doctors of Bhima Bhoi Medical College and Hospital (BBMCH) is another story. The Class IX student who acted with incredible composure, paying heed to every instruction, was the real hero.

Sadanand Meher being wheeled into a hospital on Saturday

As soon as news broke about the incident, Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik immediately announced free treatment for the boy. The CM's private secretary VK Pandian got in touch with the district collector to ensure everything went right.

Head of Surgery department of BBMCH Dr Prabhat Rath said, the moment Sadanand was wheeled into the hospital, every diagnostic system was moved into the operation theatre. "We could not have risked his movement since the javelin was stuck.Sadanand's condition is normal and we will keep a watch on his infection. He will be on liquid diet for a few days," he said.

6 of family burnt alive in Telangana

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Adilabad (Telangana)

SIX members of a family were burnt alive in a raging fire in Gudepalli Venkatapur village in Mandamarri mandal in Mancherial district in the early hours of Saturday.

They were identified as: Masa Shiviah, 55, his wife Rajalaxmi (Padma), 45, her sister's daughter Mounika, 35, and the latter's two daughters Hima Bindu, 2, Sweety, 4, and S Shantiah (50), a Singareni Collieries worker who stayed with the family.

According to sources, at about 12.30 am, neighbours noticed the fire and raised an alarm. The villagers informed the police and fire department who immediately rushed to the house in flames. By about 2.30 am, the fire tenders controlled the flames and identified that six persons had been charred to death.

The mishap took place when the family was fast sleep. There was no way they could escape and they were roasted alive. The family had a function at home the day before yesterday. Padma's sister's daughter Mounika came to the function and stayed with them with her two daughters.

Mancherial DCP Akhil Mahajan visited the spot and made inquiries about how the fire started. Dog and clues teams, forensic teams went around the mishap place and collected evidence.

The police asked the power utility and fire departments to submit reports for them to continue the investigation. The police said 16 teams have been formed to conduct the investigation. Chennur MLA Balka Suman visited the spot.

Incubation hub in M'luru will boost startups in coastal region: Ashwath

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

DR Ashwath Narayan C N, Minister for IT-BT, Higher Education and Entrepreneurship, on Saturday said an Incubation Hub will be set up in Mangaluru in order to help the growth of startups in Mangaluru Cluster that comprises of Dakshina Kannada, Udupi, Uttara Kannada and Kodagu districts.He was speaking after inaugurating 'Technovanza @ Mangaluru' organised by the Karnataka Digital Economy Mission (KDEM). The minister said a two lakh sq ft building will soon be constructed in Mangaluru to house the Incubation Hub and the Mangaluru Cluster will get a seed money of Rs 25 crore.

Further, he stressed the need to improve data management strategies and boost the focus on skilling and reskilling tech talent, especially in the upcoming clusters. "To that extent, the government is committed to leveraging startups in these regions, aiding the talent ecosystem, providing policy benefit outreach to industries, and developing social infrastructure. We are setting up 3 CoEs in this cluster - AVGC, Fintech and Cybersecurity. We've identified Mangaluru as a prime contributor towards the country's tech aspirations and will wholly invest in the cluster's people, ideas, and entrepreneurial spirit."

Ashwath Narayan said there is no unemployment in Karnataka and the state can provide jobs to the people of three states. However, he said people with skill sets required for the industry are not available. He stressed the need to check migration of people and focus on equitable and inclusive development.

Dr E V Ramana Reddy, Additional Chief Secretary, Dept of Electronics, IT BT, discussed Mangalore's growing economic stature and ongoing development plans. "Emerging clusters outside Bengaluru, like Mangaluru, are exerting more significant influence; we expect a rise in their economic contributions to be around 17% by 2030."

School play selected for Kerala fest in 'pro-Pak' row

LESLY JOSEPH @ Kozhikode

A drama staged by students of a school at an arts festival has become embroiled in a controversy. 'Boundary', the Malayalam drama of Memunda Higher Secondary School, had won the first place in the Kozhikode Revenue District School Arts Festival held earlier this month and was selected for the state festival. But, the BJP has now come up with an objection to its selection, alleging that the play is pro-Pakistan and conveys a wrong message to society.

The drama – written and directed by Rafeeq Mangalassery -- had won the first place in the high school category with an 'A' grade. However, there has been a demand that it should not be allowed to be staged in the state arts festival, with the Hindu Aikya Vedi taking out a march against it. The school authorities, however, remain unfazed and have made it clear that 'Boundary' will be staged at the state festival to be held in January 2023.

BJP district president V K Sajeevan said the play conveys the message that it is because of our narrow sense of nationalism that Pakistan is viewed as an enemy and that our country is not mature enough to think broadly.

"The script of the play for children should be in line with social realities and for the good of the country. The drama says that Pakistan is like Brazil and Argentina. Neither Brazil nor Argentina have attacked our military personnel or carried out terrorist activities across the border. The makers of the drama should have thought about the families of hundreds of people who sacrificed their lives to protect our country from Pakistan's violence," said Sajeevan. He alleged that it was through political influence that the pro-Pakistan play was brought to the arts festival through appeal.

The venue of the state fest also has added more oil the controversy. "At the state arts festival, the play is going to be staged at the West Hill Maidan named after Captain Vikram, who died in the Mumbai terror attack, which is paradoxical," he added.

Meanwhile, school principal K Krishnadas said there was nothing anti-national in the play.

GLOBAL RAT(E) RACE: RISKS FOR BUDGET 2023

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

THE limits of 'knowing' have been a subject of riveting interpretations in recent history. In 2002, former US Defence Secretary Donald Rumsfeld introduced the idiom of known unknowns and unknown unknowns into popular discourse. This week US Federal Reserve Chairman Jerome Powell invoked Fitch's paradox and inducted 'not knowable' into popular lexicon as he said it is not knowable whether there will be a recession or not.

The global economy is stranded between the Rumsfeld argot and Powell phraseology. And the realm of unknown unknowns and not knowable is expanding. This week central banks of ten economies – India, United States, United Kingdom, European Union, Switzerland, Norway, Mexico, Taiwan, Philippines and Colombia – participated in a rat(e) hike race. The hypothesis of stickier inflation has triggered rate hikes across geographies.

In fact, the current rate hikes are the steepest and fastest in recent history. Powell channeled his inner Volcker and hiked rates by 425 basis points in nine months while promising more. In Europe, infamous for negative interest rates, the European Central Bank hiked rates four times in five months to 2 per cent. The Bank of England hiked eight times this year taking its bank rate to 3.5 per cent.

How have the rate hikes played out? In June 2022, this column had cautioned 'Brace for Impact, race for Impact, Central Banks Flying Blind'. Fact is despite rate hikes, inflation continues to be three times the targeted levels. This one factoid from the US Fed records illustrates the struggle. In March 2022, the summary of economic projections estimated that inflation would fall to 4.3 per cent. Fact is unemployment is at a 50 year low, inflation in November is 7.1 per cent and the December projections reveal inflation will be higher and the GDP growth lower in the US in 2023.

The story is not dissimilar elsewhere but central bankers are not about to pause or pivot. The mantra "higher for longer" is the received wisdom and consensus across advanced economies. Fed Chief Powell anticipates "ongoing increases will be appropriate" to return to the 2 per cent target. ECB chief Christine Lagarde shot off a warning: "We're not pivoting, we're not wavering". The lather in financial markets about a pause/pivot dissipated triggering a steep slide in equity valuations while bond yields dipped in the US and rose in Europe.

The optimists are betting on the elections calendar and expectations of intervention. Ten of the G20 economies – including large economies such as the United States, United Kingdom and India -- are heading into the general election cycle in the next 12 months. The logic is higher rates will lead to job losses and loss of wealth effect. This will trigger political pressure for a pause, even a pivot to rate cuts to mitigate misery. The realists believe the outcome of the bets is located in known unknowns and 'not knowable'.

The circumstance warrants caution in the formulation of Budget 2023. It arrives in the wake of uncertain geopolitics, slowing growth and persistent inflation – and the China opening story could complicate matters. For sure India, as the fastest growing large economy, is better placed than other economies. Revenue collections are robust and reflect buoyancy. Its borrowings are funded largely by captive domestic savings. That said, buying into theories of exceptionalism and 'decoupling' carry explicit risks.

The vulnerabilities are undeniable. Exports which account for nearly a fifth of gross domestic output have contracted and imports continue to rise widening the current account deficit. Slower global growth will lower demand for goods and services – and this will hurt the MSMEs most. The rupee is hovering around ₹82.80 per dollar. It is true that the rupee is doing better than other emerging economy currencies but parading the point does not discount the higher cost India will pay for rising imports.

The crux is the cost of global capital. Rates in the US are expected to nudge past 5.1 per cent and those in Europe are estimated to cross 3-plus per cent. The rising attraction of returns on bonds in advanced economies – risk free returns in the US are currently estimated at 6 plus per cent – will daunt the rollover of external borrowings, curtail inflows and could also trigger outflows from public markets.

Budget 2023 will be the last full budget before the Lok Sabha elections in 2024. Uncertainty and disruptions in food and energy markets have already imposed a cost on allocations of over ₹3 lakh crore this year. The expansion of freebie culture in states ruled by regional parties has the potential to drive demand for continuation of schemes and expansion of programmes. The RBI has kept the options of raising interest rates higher than the current 6.25 per cent. The question is whether and also how India can, with a debt-to-GDP ratio of 84-plus per cent, fund such expectations when growth is expected to taper. The global economy it would seem is approaching its 'Wile E Coyote moment'. The soccer stars at Doha have underlined the importance of not conceding goals and yet finding ways of converting opportunities. The key phrase for Budget 2023 should be 'prudence'. It is imperative to be imaginative about the possible downsides confronting the economy.

THE LEADER OF THE SUPPOSITION

In India's Grand Old Party, the more things change, the more it looks the same. In the past few months, the Congress has veered off the beaten track to chase a few unbeaten records. It elected a non Gandhi as president. Its permanent president-in-waiting, Rahul Gandhi, started a 3500 kilometre long Bharat Jodo Yatra without any major jinxes. He stuck to the schedule and got unprecedented traction from party cadres, although habitual social activists from India and abroad piggybacked on his star trek for photo ops. Desertions from the party have reduced. But the perception that the Gandhis remotely control the GOP persists. Though Mallikarjun Kharge is the notional party chief, the choice of Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu as Himachal Pradesh CM confirmed that the family takes the final call. The presence of Rahul and Priyanka at his swearing in bolstered the perception. Moreover, senior party panjandrums are frenetically popping antacids as the family drags its feet, choosing the new leader of the opposition in the Rajya Sabha. According to party policy, one person can hold only one post. Ashok Gehlot, Sonia's first choice for party president, was asked to choose one post; he stuck to Jaipur. But Kharge isn't in the mood to practice what he preached. Sonia is yet to accept his resignation as LOP. Now he, as Sonia's successor, can't decide on his own offer.

Does the Kharge conundrum put Congress in the doldrums? Karnataka goes to the polls early next year, and insiders whisper that the Gandhis are conflicted about replacing their pet Dalit icon. They're looking for a loyal lackey who can't be compromised by the BJP's dirty tricks department. Historically, the Congress has rarely chosen an upper caste personality as LOP in the Upper House. The redoubtable UP Brahmin Kamalapati Tripathi was the last; during Janata Party rule in 1977. Since then, the post has gone to someone from a minority community or a Dalit, like Manmohan Singh, from 1998 to 2004. When BJP eviscerated the Congress in 2014, Sonia's double engine opposition was Kharge as LOP in the Lok Sabha and Ghulam Nabi Azad in the Rajya Sabha. Veteran Congressmen were bemused by Kharge being brought into the Rajya Sabha and made LOP over colleagues who have served two or three terms. Anand Sharma, a Brahmin and the RS deputy leader, was bypassed. It's not that Congress lacks talent. It has power packs like Digvijay Singh, P. Chidambaram, Pramod Tiwari and Rajiv Shukla. But they are either from the elite or the upper castes. The Gandhis could choose a younger loyalist like Mukul Wasnik or K C Venugopal to replace Kharge. Obviously, merit, capability and verisimilitude as the traits of a credible parliamentarian still have no place in the Gandhi-managed ecosystem.

DOUBLE TROUBLE FOR SAFFRON STATES

The Himachal Pradesh debacle has given the BJP's Double Engine Sarkar slogan a flat tyre. After all, it polled barely less than one per cent of the vote than the Congress and still lost Shimla. The BJP has been urging voters to elect the same party at both the Centre and the State for faster and better development. Now an internal debate around the fading glitter of this electoral formula is slipping into top gear. The big question is "which engine failed to haul the party back into power". PM Modi is indeed its most powerful engine. It feels that had Modi spent more time electioneering in Himachal, it would've returned to power. This suggests that Jairam Thakur, as chief minister, wasn't a fully charged second engine. On the other hand, the BJP won Gujarat for the seventh consecutive time with a record 156 seats. Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel was no second engine; Modi and Modi alone was in the driving seat surging ahead at supersonic speed. But the Gujarat political model doesn't fit all sizes. Barring UP, Uttarakhand and Assam, BJP's double engine narrative hasn't delivered many states even after Modi secured his second mega mandate with over 300 MPs. Saffron couldn't form the government in Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, and Chhattisgarh. No majority in Haryana, Karnataka and Goa either. It lost twice in Delhi and once in Bihar. It couldn't convince West Bengal voters to give the double engine pitch a fist bump. It was gutted in Punjab. Evidently, voters in Assembly polls choose engines that can propel their state forward. For them, Modi is the first engine of the national bandwagon with the most horsepower and fuel economy. Voters don't trust local party leaders that well. Since over a dozen states go to the polls before 2024, sequencing the Double Engine narrative poses a big challenge for BJP. Unless they find an equally turbocharged second engine as Modi, no double engine is likely to take the BJP limo all the way to the mantralayas.

RESHUFFLE CHILLS ON RAISINA HILL

South Block scuttlebutt speculates whether First Engine Modi will dump some rusty compartments from the BJP gravy train. Some of them are causing a lag down by depending on the PM to take them to their destination. Does it mean a massive cabinet reshuffle after the winter session? Predicting Modi's moves is a hasty hobby, his unpredictability being his USP. A large portion of his 78-member Council of Ministers is well spoken. But the cadre feels that some of them aren't doers an d are hardly connected with ground reality. How will the repackaged Cabinet look as a matter of conjecture? Will the excessive representation of Rajya Sabha members be trimmed in the pruned Cabinet? Presently, 10 of the 91 BJP members in the RS hold vital posts like Finance, External Affairs, Petroleum, Commerce, Telecommunications, Health, Education and Industry. Three ministers are from the Services and have little experience in practical politics—good at desk jobs but electorally untested. Perhaps a couple of them may be replaced with Lok Sabha MPs who have to seek votes for the party in less than 24 months. The PMO has set up a special cell to monitor the performance of every mantri. Ministers' social media obsession and competitive sycophancy wouldn't get them any birth in the Cabinet since visibility with credibility is the new benchmark for survival. Fair-weather birds feathering their nests with a conveniently conceived conviction for Hindutva and nationalism are likely to be shafted. Ek Bar Aur in 2024 is the war cry. Modi aims to be the second Prime Minister and first non-Congress leader to win three consecutive elections since Independence. To score that record, he will have to get rid of NPAs in his current team first.

DIABETICS OF INDIA UNITE

OPINION

ANURADHA GOYAL
Author and founder of IndiTales

DON'T travel too much, said my doctor. The reason was unhealthy food and a disturbed eating schedule. Well, I can't disagree with her. It is not easy to get simple, home-like food while travelling. And yes, most days, your eating schedule goes for a toss, even if you travel for well-organised events like conferences or literature festivals. Both factors directly impact health and especially for diabetics like me.

Roughly 10% of the Indian population is diabetic. After age adjustment, the prevalence in the adult population would be far more. Add to it the undetected cases, and our diabetic population will exceed the population of most countries.

How well are our society and systems geared to help us lead a normal healthy life? We rarely incorporate a healthy lifestyle in our scheme of things even though almost everyone has diabetics among close family and friends circles.

Let me begin with hospitals, where we discover and deal with the disease. Most hospital canteens or cafes serve unhealthy food. The swanky hotel-like corporate hospitals have high-end cafes selling pastries, apple pies, colas, sugar-laden tea and coffee, cakes, samosas, patties, etc. Ask them for a healthy option, and you may get a packet of Marie biscuits, but only sometimes. Switch to government hospitals or medical colleges. You mostly get oily canteen food. A juice shop could be there, but that's strictly out of bounds for diabetics. Ask for healthy options, and you may get pity with a smile.

Forget diabetics, the food served at hospitals is precisely what the doctor advises us not to consume. Why they ignore the quality of food right under their nose is a question I have for them.

Let's look at the hospitality industry as we end up being at their mercy when travelling. I have stayed in all kinds of hotels, from lodges in small towns to the most luxurious properties in the country. No chef worth their salt has yet invented drinks without sugar. That's simply out of syllabus for them.

Most of the time, we end up having Nimbu Pani, which is as basic as it gets. No, the problem is not of available options. Indian drinks offer enough options, curd-based or sattu-based, or seasonal ones like Kanji, but they don't fit into the elite mindset of our hospitality professionals. Of course, they have yet to try to be innovative. I have often asked for a new dish invented post-independence that has been mainstreamed, and I am still waiting for an answer.

Much of the popular cuisine was developed when there was a need for it, be it the soft kebabs of Lucknow or Hyderabad's Osmania biscuits. With a huge diabetic population, we have not yet invented platters they can enjoy guilt-free as 'Fit for Diabetics'? The risk is that it would mark most packaged food industry 'unfit' for diabetics. Turn the table, and here is a huge opportunity for the same industry to be creative and innovative.

> Much of the popular cuisine was developed when there was a need for it, be it the soft kebabs of Lucknow or Hyderabad's Osmania biscuits. With a huge diabetic population, we have not yet invented platters they can enjoy guilt-free

Fresh food on the roadside is far more diabetic-friendly than any packaged food or food sold at high-end eateries, irrespective of how they project themselves as organic or healthy.

Now, let's look at society. Most people understand the basic needs of a diabetic, as they either live with the disease or have someone around them who lives with it. Genetically we are at high risk even if we do not have the disease. Then, why do we offer sweets to our diabetic guests and insist they eat them? It is not easy to resist what you are prohibited from consuming.

Culturally, we used to have sweets only during festivals we celebrated and not at every possible festival on earth. Occasionally we consumed them during weddings or functions. They were not really a part of our everyday food. We may have consumed a piece of jaggery after oily or rich food, but sugar-laden sweets were not integral to our daily meals.

In an era of everything available anytime and anywhere, the temptations are served to us on every possible screen we look at. So, earlier I savoured Ghevar only if I visited Rajasthan during Shravan. Today I can order it around the year from my phone. Look at the sweet shop growth in your cities and towns in your own lifetime and you know what I mean. We have broken all boundaries of consumption that our culture so well taught us to balance.

Are our professional spaces geared up to help diabetics eat healthily and, more importantly, on time? My experience says that we tend to be too flexible with meal timings – deprioritising them for long meetings or flight schedules or just like that. Eating on time and at regular intervals takes care of disease as no medicine can.

It is time we form diabetic circles and demand what we need. We are a huge market and let the businesses innovate for us and a healthy society.

Death row convicts

I agree with the view expressed in 'Death row wait inhuman' (Dec 17). There are cases where convicts are waiting for more than two decades in processing till the final appeal to the President of India for pardon/remission or otherwise. The rules should be reviewed and a timeframe is laid so that the death-row convicts get justice within a reasonable time.

KCR's priorities

It appears Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrashekhar Rao is much preoccupied in central politics after the formation of the BRS. It will be wise if KCR nominates one of his loyalists in his place as CM so that the state administration does not suffer. By doing so, a new CM can fully focus on long pending public grievances in the last year before elections. Else BRS may face defeat in its home state.

Deaths on roads

Apropos of 'Have a holistic approach to road building' (Dec 17). India is home to the world's second largest road networks with a total road length of 62.1 lakh km. It is a common sight to witness widening of existing highways at the expense of people's livelihood. Tinsel towns look war-hit, with houses and shops being razed. Trees are felled causing damage to the environment. Claims of compensation do not change the lives of the affected. Though better roads are eventually created, they continue to remain among the largest causes of death and disability.

Kerala education

Ref. to 'CM: Outflow of students not as worrisome as projected' (Dec 17). A large number of vacant seats for almost all subjects in both aided and self-financing colleges underscores that all is not well with higher education in Kerala. Political influence and bias in the selection of faculty have affected the quality of teaching and research. Unless prompt steps are taken to rectify the situations, the efflux of students will remain unabated.

Rahul's outburst

The outburst of Rahul Gandhi that the government is sleeping while China is planning to attack India is ridiculous. Is he not aware that his great-grandfather was responsible for conceding some of our territories to the Chinese, besides allowing a part of Kashmir to be occupied by Pakistan? It is the NDA that has taken the initiative to build border roads and strengthen our defence. Politicizing even sensitive matters has become the habit of Congress leaders.

What has been ignited by Vice-President Dhankar over the collegium's power to select judges, law minister Rijiju frequently adds fuel by saying courts are guilty of the glut of cases in the face of judges' vacancy at 30%. It is common knowledge that our Parliament never has a normal transaction day without unruly scenes. Both parliament and SC have to work as per constitutional principles to achieve equitable justice.

Delays dog Navy's high-tech submarine plan

Timeline for project to construct six advanced conventional submarines has been extended till August 2023

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

DELAYS continue to dog Indian Navy's ambitious project to construct six advanced (high-tech) conventional submarines the Indian Navy. The timeline for the the project has been granted another extension. The Request for Proposal for the project was issued in July 2021 under the Strategic Partnership model of the Make in India initiative. But, there is no concrete headway to move ahead with the project.

A source familiar with the subject said, "The Project 75 India (P 75I) has been given an extension till the August of 2023 for which the bids can be submitted by all the prospective bidders."

There has been a reservation from the foreign bidders regarding the Air Independent Propulsion (AIP) technology which has to be the integral part of the six new boats to be manufactured indigenously.

"There has been no relaxation related to the functional Fuel Cell-based AIP, all the boats are to have a working AIP onboard." added the sources.

India doesn't operate any submarine with the AIP technogy yet far | INDIAN NAVY

There has been weak response from the foreign Original Equipment Manufacturers (OEMs) quoting stringent conditions of the RFP and had led to some of them exiting from the process. AIP has been one of the few issues on which the OEMs had observations.

This is the second time that the Request for Proposal (RFP) response had to be extended with the first time extended in June with a deadline of December 31 this year approaching. RFP is an official process to elicit response from the prospective bidders.

AIP technology helps the conventional submarines to remain submerged for longer duration otherwise they have to surface in order to use oxygen to charge their batteries. At present only select countries have this technological knowhow and India is also in process to develop it. While India doesn't operate any submarine with the AIP, Pakistan already has two such submarines and has tied up with China for six such submarines. Also, the Indian underwater combat force is short of its planned force levels and operates around 16 submarines.

As a major initiative towards 'Make in India', Ministry of Defence (MoD) had issued Request of Proposal (RFP) for the first acquisition programme under the Strategic Partnership Model for construction of six AIP fitted Conventional Submarines named Project 75(India) [P-75(I)] for the Indian Navy, on July 20, 2021. The RFP was issued to shortlisted Strategic Partners (SPs) or Indian Applicant Companies for the project viz, Mazagon Dock Shipbuilders Limited (MDL) and Larsen & Tubro (L&T). The project cost is over ₹40,000 crore.

> The Project 75 India (P 75I) has been given an extension till the August of 2023 for which the bids can be submitted by all the prospective bidders
> A defence source

The Ministry of Defence in July 2021, at the time of issuing the RFP had said, "Project-75(I) envisages indigenous construction of six modern conventional submarines (including associated shore support, Engineering Support Package, training and spares package) with contemporary equipment, weapons & sensors including Fuel-Cell based AIP (Air Independent Propulsion Plant), advanced torpedoes, modern missiles and state of the art countermeasure systems. This would provide a major boost to the indigenous design and construction capability of submarines in India, in addition to bringing in the latest submarine design and technologies as part of the project."

Post receipt of responses to the Expression of Interest (EoI), shortlisting of potential Strategic Partners (SPs) and Foreign OEMs was to be undertaken.

SAALUMARADA THIMMAKKA

DEEP-ROOTED LOVE STORY OF MOTHER OF TREES

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

SOURAV ROY

IN 2019, Saalumarada Thimmakka, who was said to be 107 years old then, was at Rashtrapati Bhavan in New Delhi to receive the Padma Shri award, one of the highest civilian awards of the country. While receiving the award, she raised her right hand to place it on the then President of India, Ram Nath Kovind's head to bless him. Kovind bowed his head to receive her blessings.

Later, Kovind tweeted: "At the Padma awards ceremony, it is the President's privilege to honour India's best and the most deserving. But today, I was deeply touched when Saalumarada Thimmakka, an environmentalist from Karnataka, and at 107 the oldest Padma awardee this year, thought it fit to bless me."

Hailing from Gubbi Taluk of Tumakuru, and never having been able to go to school, Thimmakka started working as a labourer at a young age, and later married Chikkaiah, from Hulikal village of Ramanagara district. She was hardly 12-years-old then. The name "Saalumara" ("row of trees") prefixed to her name Thimmakka did not come overnight. The stretch Hulikal to Kudor near Ramanagara district, which is now part of the highway with tree shades on either side, tells you the story of her hard work and dedication. This stretch is some 70 km from Bengaluru. Even after close to 70 years, these trees stand tall, spreading their branches. Along with her husband, she took care of close to 400 trees, each treated like their own child, which speaks volumes of their struggle and determination.

The couple, who did not have children, found solace in planting saplings and protecting them like their own children. It all started with ficus (banyan) trees which were found in plenty in their village near Ramanagara, the couple started grafting saplings from these trees with ten in the first year, 15 in the second, and so on.

While Chikkaiah used to dig pits, Thimmakka — also known as Vruksha Maathe (Mother of Trees), would carry water-filled pots for those saplings. The couple had put their earnings on buying pots and other essentials for planting. Together, they would also protect it with fencing using thorny shrubs.

Chikkaiah passed away in 1991. Overcoming the grief, she again found solace in the trees, and continued to take care of them with a renewed vigour.

In her lifetime, she has managed to plant and grow over 8,000 trees. She not just plants them, but encourages the younger generation to do so too.

Her responsibility as the "Mother of Trees" did not end there. She was seen as the face of every environmental issue and took part in protests, extending her support. In 2019, when HD Kumaraswamy was the CM, there was a proposal to cut trees on the Bagepalli-Halaguru road (in Mandya district) to widen the highway (that includes the stretch where she and her husband had planted 385 banyan trees all those years ago). She opposed it, leading to the government looking for alternative routes, thus saving those 70-year-old trees.

NEWSMAKER

Thimmakka has been honoured with many national and international awards other than the prestigious Kannada Rajyotsava Award by the Karnataka government. The Central University of Karnataka also honoured her with Honorary Doctorate, and in 2016, BBC listed her as one of the most influential and inspirational women of the world. Earlier this year, the Karnataka government appointed her as Karnataka Environment Ambassador with a cabinet rank. Besides those, she was awarded Nadoja Award By Hampi University (2010), National Citizens award (1995), Indira Priyadarshini Vrikshamitra Awards (1997), Veera Chakra Prashasti Award (1997), and Karnataka Kalpavalli Award (2000), among others.

Even today, at 110 and despite her age-related health issues, she attends various events, including those in colleges, where she stands like a green crusader, spreading messages to GenNext.

Although receiving some prestigious awards, she remains firmly grounded, like the roots of her beloved trees.

Army-baiter, China friend: BJP raps Rahul for LAC jibe

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

BJP national president JP Nadda on Saturday lambasted Congress leader Rahul Gandhi for his remark that Chinese soldiers are beating up Indian soldiers in Arunachal Pradesh.

"Our armed forces are epitome of sacrifice, bravery and valour. Whenever the nation has faced any crisis, our army has led from the front to serve the country/ Rahul Gandhi has once again lowered the morale of our armed forces by passing highly condemnable and unpardonable remarks," said Nadda.

Going hammer and tongs against the Congress Party, Nadda further said: "We all know that Congress Party had signed a MoU with Communist Party of China. It is also in the public domain that the Rajiv Gandhi Foundation had taken funding from the Chinese embassy. Perhaps that is the reason Rahul Gandhi always speaks in favour of Chinese government and its army".

Union minister Anurag Thakur said he was not surprised by Gandhi's statement as even at the time of the Doklam incident he was seen drinking soup with Chinese officials.

"When Indian soldiers carried out the surgical strikes, even then he raised questions. He and the Congress seem to have no faith in the Indian Army. But we have full faith in our army. Today our army is capable of conducting surgical strikes and gives a befitting reply to the encroachers," he said.

Union minister Kiren Rijiju said Gandhi has not only insulted the Army but also damaged the country's image.

"He is not only a problem for the Congress Party but he has also become a huge embarrassment the country. We are proud of our Armed Forces," the MP from Arunachal tweeted.

GRAFT CASE

CBI moves SC challenging HC bail to Deshmukh

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

TERMING Bombay HCs order of granting bail to Former Maharashtra Home Minister Anil Deshmukh in a graft case as "erroneous", CBI has approached Supreme Court.

The graft case had culminated pursuant to CBI registering FIR against Deshmukh for allegedly collecting/extorting money from restaurants and bar owners. It was also alleged that he had instructed Sachin Waze to collect Rs.3 lakhs each from 1750 Orchestra Bars/ Pubs/establishments in Mumbai totalling ₹40 to ₹50 crores approximately. EDs case was also based on CBIs corruption FIR against him.

The Bombay HC on December 12 had taken note of the charge sheet filed by CBI and had said that since Deshmukh was no longer a Home Minister, there was no question of him influencing the witnesses. HC had however granted 10 days for CBI to approach SC.

Earlier, the SC had dismissed ED's plea challenging bail granted to the minister by the Bombay HC in a money-laundering case and he was in custody with regards to the case registered by CBI. Deshmukh was ED's custody since November 2021 and in CBIs custody since April 6, 2022.

Hydrogen-powered trains to go on track by '23 end: Vaishnaw

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Indian Railways has developed the design of the Hydrogen-powered passenger train. And, if everything goes as per plan, the Indian Railway will conduct its 'trial run' by the end of 2023.

Confirming this to this newspaper, Union Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw on on Saturday said: "The Indian Railways has developed the design of Hydrogen-powered passenger train, which will be first of its kind in India with indigenous technology".

> The Indian Railways has developed the design of Hydrogen-powered passenger train, which will be first of its kind in India with indigenous technology
> Ashwini Vaishnaw, Railway Minister

In 2018, Germany had introduced the world's first commercial Hydrogen-powered passenger train. He said that a lot of works required to develop the Hydrogen –powered train has been done. This will be in addition to India's indigenously developed high-speed Vande Bharat and the upcoming bullet train services in the country.

In reply to a specific query, the Railway Minister said that there would not be any requirement to have additional separate tracks to run the Hyperogen-powered trains.

"The Indian Railways has enough tracks and technical capability to run such train with our own technology," he said.

He said that Prime Minister Narendra Modi wants to have world class train services and a lot of works are being done in the country. He also said that India will soon become the fourth country after Germany and other two to have technology to run the Hydrogen-powered train.

"Our focus is not only making new trains. But also working hard track management, technology advancements in rail transportation and bringing new innovation in services to emerge as world's one of the most developed and technology-driven train services," he claimed, adding that the PM Modi has envisioned the new concept for Indian Railway.

He said that the Vande Bharat train technology has attracted a lot of global attention as it has proven record of extreme efficiency, accuracy and safe and swift train services. The Railway Minister said that the Hydrogen-powered passenger train will be a small train of having 6 to 8 coaches, but it technology will be extremely brilliant and indigenous as Indian engineers have designed it meticulously.

Adoptions have come down in last 3 years, govt says in Parliament

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

AS many as 1836 children have been adopted by Indians and 222 by foreigners, including non-resident Indians, this year till December 13, according to Women and Child Development Minister Smriti Z Irani. The number has dipped as compared to the previous three years.

In 2021-22, 2991 children were adopted by Indians and 414 by foreigners, while in 2020-21, 3142 children were adopted by Indians and 417 by foreigners.

The highest number of adoptions occurred in 2019-20 when Indians adopted 3351 and foreigners 394 children.

Irani said that most of the grievances they have received are waiting time from prospective adoptive parents (PAPs). "While there is a long queue to adopt a normal young child upto six years of age, there is no waiting period for the PAPs who desire to adopt a child having special needs and a child from immediate placement category (mostly older children)," she said. Further, the waiting time is relevant for the PAPs only; the legally free children do not have to wait, she said in a written reply.

Based on feedback received from the stakeholders and experts, Central Adoption Resource Authority (CARA) has framed the Adoption Regulations, 2022 in line with the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (as amended in 2021), which has been notified on September 23.

Search for 24 'missing' monuments via old records

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

EVEN after five years it conceded that 24 centrally protected monuments are untraceable, the culture ministry has not given up hope. The ministry has told the standing committee on transport, tourism and culture that with the help of old revenue records, revenue maps and published reports, these historical structures might be located in the future. However, the 'dismayed' panel recommended that the Archeological Survey of India, the national watchdog of heritage sites under the ministry, undertake a survey of all the 3,693 centrally protected monuments to check their physical 'existence' and to ensure their maintenance and protection.

In its 324th report titled -- Issues relating to Untraceable Monuments and Protection of Monuments in India -- tabled in Rajya Sabha last week, the Committee stated that it is perturbed to note that having found out that at least 24 monuments are untraceable out of the sample of monuments studied, no further surveys were conducted for the remaining monuments, even nearly a decade after the original study.

"A physical survey of all the Centrally Protected Monuments must mandatorily be carried out by ASI from time to time as per a fixed time schedule. Digital log books may be maintained which may contain textual and photographic or video record of the state of physical preservation of the monument, exact location coordinates and clearly demarcated prohibited and regulated areas in the vicinity of the monument," the panel said.

It further suggested that the digital records might be made accessible to the general public to avoid any ambiguities.

The Comptroller and Auditor General of India (CAG) in its 2013 report on 'Performance Audit of Preservation and Conservation of Monuments and Antiquities' reported that 92 monuments are 'missing'. Subsequently, the ASI carried out a mega exercise to locate the reportedly untraceable monuments. The efforts bore fruits and many of them were 'traced out'. The Survey had found 42 sites physically existed and 14 were 'affected' due to rapid urbanisation. About 12 sites, it stated that they existed but submerged under dams or water reservoirs but 24 heritage properties were 'untraceable'.

In its response to the panel, the ministry stated that exact location and condition of untraceable monuments could not be determined.

Shah meets Mamata in her chamber

At Eastern Zone Council meet, CM takes up border smuggling issue amid BSF's expanded role

PRONAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

UNION Home minister Amit Shah met West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee for 20 minutes on the sidelines of the 25th Eastern Zone Council meeting on Saturday where issues like land for Border Security Force (BSF) outposts, railway projects and the state government's dues from the Centre were discussed.

The Council meeting continued for 1 hour 40 minutes from 11 am. After the meeting, Mamata requested Shah to visit her chamber on the 14th floor of the state secretariat, which Shah accepted. In the Eastern Zonal Council meeting called by Shah at Nabanna, the state secretariat, the chief ministers of West Bengal CM, Jharkhand, Bihar and representatives from Odisha were present.

Fencing along the Bangladesh border, cross-border smuggling and timely completion of the freight corridor were the issues discussed in the meeting. Shah indicated to chief ministers that the states too share responsibility along with the BSF for security in India's border areas. The role of BSF was discussed, in the light of the increase in the operational area of the border force earlier this year. In response, according to sources, the home minister is believed to have indicated that the state governments, too, have a role to play in border security, according to sources.

Meet comes amid 'harsh' action by Central agencies

The Shah-Mamata meeting came at a time when the Bengal govt and the Centre are at loggerheads over highhandedness of probe agencies against Trinamool Congress leaders and the need for better coordination between the state police and BSF

The meeting also discussed the resurgence of Maoist activities in Jharkhand-Odisha and Bengal. It was decided that states and Centre will pool real-time information on Maoist activities in the red zone in order to coordinate steps to neutralize the movement, officials said. The one-on-one meeting between Shah and Mamata is said to be politically significant as it came at a time when the Bengal government and the Centre were at loggerheads on several issues ranging from alleged highhandedness of central agencies against Trinamool Congress leaders and better coordination between the state police and the BSF. Suvendu Adhikari, the leader of Opposition who came to the airport to see Shah off, said, "I asked Shah ji about his meeting with the CM. He told me that lands required for setting up 72 BSF outposts along the Bangladesh border and better communication between the state police force and the BSF were discussed with her."

Adhikari said Shah called him for a meeting along with BJP's state president in Delhi on Tuesday to discuss "important issues". Sources at Nabanna said the more important issue that Shah highlighted in the Council meeting was the fencing of the border between Bengal and Bangladesh. Of the 2,216 km border, 1,638 km is already covered with wired fencing. The Centre is stressing erecting the barbed fencing along another 150 km at the earliest. The rest of the frontier cannot be fenced as the border runs through rivers or has technical problems such as the presence of villagers within 150 metres from the boundary. The issue of cattle smuggling was also discussed in the meeting.

Hooch tragedy: Leaders unite against Nitish govt

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

LEADERS across all party lines made a beeline at Masarakh in Bihar's Saran district as it reported the maximum number of deaths in recent hooch tragedy, on Saturday. Around 67 people have died after consuming spurious liquor in Masarakh, Isuapur, Amnaur and Taraiya blocks in the district since Tuesday. The district authority, however, have put the official death toll at 30.

Two more people died at Chhapra sadar hospital soon after they were admitted for treatment with complaints of stomach pain, vomiting and loss of vision. The victims had consumed alcohol allegedly during a rally on Friday ahead of the first phase of civic polls to be held on December 18.

A candidate had thrown a feast after the rally. Earlier in the day, another victim hailing from Dariyapur died at Chhapra sadar hospital during treatment. Meanwhile, a delegation of LJP (Rashtriya) led by Union Minister Pashupati Kumar Paras met Governor Phagu Chauhan and handed over a memorandum demanding imposition of the President's rule in the state. Talking to the media, union minister said that the incident should be probed by central vigilance agencies to bring truth to the fore. LJP (Ram Vilas) Chirag Paswan was the first leader to reach Masarakh to meet the bereaved families. Chirag said, "It's not death due to suspected liquor poisoning. It's murder. When people die after being poisoned, it's called murder."

Vidyasagar Setu to get a facelift from Monday

In a first comprehensive overhaul of India's longest cable-stayed bridge, 14 cables of Vidyasagar Setu or Second Hooghly Bridge will be replaced over the next eight months. The bridge, inaugurated in 1992, spans 823 metres across river Hooghly. A team of senior engineers from Hooghly River Bridge Commissioners will conduct load tests and structural experts from a French engineering company will join the team to calibrate the performance of the bridge's cables from Monday night to Tuesday early morning. No vehicles will be allowed on the bridge during the time of inspection.

KMC picks fire-prone spots for drills

As per a survey 490 pockets in Kolkata have been identified that are prone to fires. The survey had been jointly conducted by the Kolkata Municipal Corporation, fore department, electric supply corporation and the police. "We have identified the fire hazardous pockets in the city. We will soon have fire drills in these pockets that will help us identify the places from where water can be brought to douse flames quickly. We have 750 deep tube wells in the city and they can be used to refill fire tenders. We will bore few more deep tube wells," said KMC Mayor Firhad .

Jadavpur Univ alumni give 17 computers

A California-based platform of former Jadavpur University students that is raising funds to help the cash-strapped university has contributed Rs 7 lakh to buy 17 computers for the engineering department. The Global Jadavpur University Alumni Foundation announced on its social media platform: "The team has already sent funds to the university to buy 15 computers. We expect these computers to be installed soon. The laboratory currently has 40 non-functioning computers." The departments of the university have been told that only 70% of the budgeted amount can be spent if the annual budget is ₹3 lakh or less.

Mulayam's DA clean chit report fake: CBI

SHAHID FARIDI @ New Delhi

IN a startling disclosure that may revive the disproportionate assets case against Samajwadi Party president Akhilesh Yadav, his wife Dimple and brother Prateek, the CBI on Saturday informed a special court that a report filed by party patriarch Mulayam Singh Yadav in the Supreme Court in 2019 claiming that the agency had given him and his family a clean chit in the case was fake.

A CBI report, dated 14.12.2022, but filed on 17.12.2022, in a New Delhi court of special CBI judge Anjani Mahajan, said: "... a case was registered on the basis of a complaint dated 02.03.2009 received from Shri S R Majumdar, the then SP, ACU-V, New Delhi against unknown persons for preparing fake and fabricated report to tarnish the reputation of CBI... They surreptitiously collected some documents relating to the enquiry conducted by CBI as per orders dated 01.03 2007 passed by hon'ble Supreme Court of India on the allegations of acquisition of disproportionate assets by Mulayam Singh Yadav and his family members. The said unknown persons fraudulently and willfully fabricated some false reports... with intent to make the authorities concerned believe the documents to be a genuine report of the CBI..."

Mulayam Singh Yadav, Akhilesh, Dimple

The report the CBI referred to is a 17-page note filed in the SC by Mulayam as proof of the CBI giving him a clean chit. The CBI now says that this note was fabricated and the signatures of its officers were lifted from some other documents and affixed on the note.

The CBI said "the handwriting expert of CFSL, New Delhi has opined that the 17-page review note is a forged one and the said note contains a forged signature of DIG/AC-II."

Now, Dimple's name may be added in the case as she was let off on the basis of the forged note. The case against Akhilesh and Prateek may also gain strength after CBI's disclosure.

A petition was filed in 2005 in the SC seeking direction for registering a case against Mulayam and family for amassing assets.

On October 26, 2007, the CBI submitted a report in SC saying prima facie a case is made out, and sought its permission for registering a regular case, but the matter remained pending. In 2019, Mulayam filed an affidavit in the SC along with the fake 17-page report.

MVA takes out march, demands Koshyari removal

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Maha Vikas Aghadi coalition held a mega rally in Mumbai on Sunday to protest against the incumbent government and demand the removal of Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshyari for his controversial remarks against Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj.

The rally saw the participation of NCP chief Sharad Pawar as well as former chief minister Uddhav Thackeray and his wife Rashmi Thackeray. Addressing the rally near the BMC head office, Pawar said if Koshyari is not removed, the youth of Maharashtra will not sit quietly. Pawar added that they have come together for the honour of Maharashtra.

"People who are in power are using derogatory language against our idols and icons. Maharashtra and the entire world have adored Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj for 350 years. We will never tolerate insult to his name. Therefore, a large number of people are coming together for the protest," Pawar said. He added that he has been in politics for 55 years and has seen the tenure of many governors.

The NCP leader also spoke the state border issue, saying, "Seventy years ago, lakhs of people marched in Mumbai for the 'united Maharashtra' movement.

As an artist, moon mission sounded interesting to me: Dev

"BEING an artist, it sounded very interesting to me and I instantly related my life to what MZ was looking for in his crew," he said.

The important eligibility criteria for the participants to be included in the dearMoon mission included that they "must demonstrate a potential for individual growth from this mission and ensure that their experience brings future value for the world, producing societal contributions that will benefit humankind for generations to come. The applicants must be able to support the fellow crew members who have the same potential and vision," said the dearMoon organisers.

Regarding the health parameters for the lunar mission, they said it is a must for the crew to return back to earth safely. "We conducted medical checkups to make sure the crew members selected are in good shape to participate in this mission," they added.

The screening and selection process included various steps; from pre-registration to initial screening, submission of an assignment on a movie on the theme - "What I want to do in space", online interview, final interview and medical checkup, and finally, a face-to-face interview with Maezawa.

Regarding the itinerary and food for the lunar mission, the organisers said the crew will travel within 200 km of the lunar surface. "The crew activity during the trip and the food are to be determined," they added.

Whether the dearMoon mission will open the moon as a coveted tourist destination for select earthlings, the team said theirs will be the first all-civilian mission to fly around the moon. "A few months ago, entrepreneur Dennis Tito and his wife bought seats on Starship, which presumably becomes the second mission to fly around the moon.

Allahabad HC dismisses Ansari's plea in '96 case

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

IN yet another jolt, the application filed by jailed former MLA Mukhtar Ansari challenging the proceedings in the case lodged under Gangster Act in 1996 was dismissed by Allahabad High Court on Friday.

The Allahabad HC junked the appeal of the jailed former MLA a day after he was sentenced to 10 years in prison in case by a Ghazipur MP/MLA court which had also slapped a penalty of Rs 5 lakh on Ansari and his aide Bhim Singh.

Ansari, who has been behind the bars for the sine 2006, has been convicted in two other cases in September this year.

The order passed by a single judge bench comprising Justice Samit Gopal, read, "At the very outset, learned counsels for the applicant stated that the present 482 application has become infructuous as the trial has concluded and as such the same be dismissed as infructuous."

"The application is dismissed as infructuous," it further stated. Ansari, in the application, had pleaded the high court to quash the chargesheet filed against him in 2004 in the case.

Row over Pathaan intensifies as war of words touches new low

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

CONTROVERSY over the upcoming Hindi film Pathaan seems to be touching a new low every day as the lines between condemnation, personal attacks and crass memes get blurred in the sweeping storm of agenda-peddling.

In the name of calling for a boycott of the Shah Rukh Khan-starrer, social media is rife with played-in-slow motion videos and cropped images showing a scantily-clad Deepika Padukone gyrating in the Besharam Rang song. Talk about protesting against objectification of women using — well, just that. Blurred lines are also being seen when it comes to the political divide, with both sides, politicians included, resorting to body-shaming women to prove their point.

Those opposing the opposition against Pathaan have now posted old videos of BJP leaders to prove that the party's supporters have no right to do moral grandstanding. While TMC national spokesperson Riju Dutta posted an old video showing Union Minister Smriti Irani participating in the swimsuit round at the Miss India contest, social media is also trending with clips from actor-turned-MP Manoj Tiwari's film songs, targeting the actors for wearing saffron clothes.

'Would SRK watch this song with daughter?'

Madhya Pradesh Vidhan Sabha Speaker Girish Gautam followed his party colleague, MP's Home Minister Narottam Mishra, in demanding a ban on the movie in the state. He then asked if Shah Rukh Khan would watch the Besharam song with his daughter.

Dutta's tweet led Locket Chatterjee, the BJP MP from Hooghly, to retort, "Shame on Mamata Banerjee for appointing such misogynist men as TMC's national spokesperson. He has no respect for women and the choices they make in life. They resent successful women and their rise."

On Saturday, Madhya Pradesh Vidhan Sabha Speaker Girish Gautam followed his party colleague, MP's Home Minister Narottam Mishra, in demanding a ban on the movie in the state. He then asked if Shah Rukh would watch the Besharam song with his daughter. "I too support banning the movie in MP. I challenge them to make a similar film on the Prophet in the name of the same freedom of speech and expression," Gautam said. "The entire world will then witness bloodshed. We've seen that in the past. Something sacrilegious about the Prophet happened in one part of the world and destructive protests happened in India. But the same people in India won't support the anti-Hijab movement in Iran, saying it's not their issue," he added.

PM to launch ₹6,800cr projects in N-E today

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi will visit Meghalaya and Tripura on Sunday to inaugurate and lay the foundation stones of various projects. Assembly elections in the two states are expected in February next year.

The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) rules Tripura and is a component of the ruling coalition in Meghalaya.

An official statement said the PM would participate in the golden jubilee celebration of the North Eastern Council (NEC) in Shillong and address the gathering. Governors and chief ministers of all the eight states in the North-east are scheduled to attend the event.

The North Eastern Council has played a key role in the socio-economic development of the north-eastern region by lending support to various infrastructure projects and other development initiatives. "It has helped create valuable capital and social infrastructure, especially in critical gap areas of sectors including education, health, sports, water resources, agriculture, tourism, industry, among others," the statement said.

PM to inaugurate four new road projects

Prime Minister Narendra Modi will also inaugurate four other road projects across three states such as Meghalaya, Manipur and Arunachal Pradesh

PM Modi will inaugurate and lay the foundation stone of multiple projects, worth over ₹2,450 crore, in Shillong.

He will inaugurate the new campus of Indian Institute of Management (IIM), Shillong at Umsawli and the Shillong – Dienpasoh Road, which will provide better connectivity to new Shillong Satellite Township and decongest Shillong.

He will also inaugurate four other road projects across three states such as Meghalaya, Manipur and Arunachal Pradesh.

Further, the PM will inaugurate the Spawn Laboratory at Mushroom Development Center in Meghalaya to enhance mushroom spawn production and provide skill training for farmers and entrepreneurs. He will, thereafter, inaugurate 21 Hindi libraries in Mizoram, Manipur, Tripura and Assam.

In Tripura, he will inaugurate and lay the foundation stones of various projects, worth over ₹4,350 crore. The Prime Minister will launch the Grih Pravesh programme for beneficiaries under Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana – Urban and Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana – Rural. These houses, developed at a cost of over ₹3,400 crore, will cover over 2 lakh beneficiaries.

With a focus on improving road connectivity, the PM will inaugurate a project for the widening of Agartala bypass, which will help ease traffic congestion in Agartala city.

He will also lay the foundation stones for 32 roads of more than 230 km length under the Pradhan Mantri Gram Sadak Yojana and for the improvement of 112 roads covering a distance of over 540 km.

Modi will also inaugurate the State Institute of Hotel Management at Anandnagar and Agartala Government Dental College.

Indian pushback on UN bid to cap use of pesticides

Environment minister Bhupender Yadav also supported subsidies in the agriculture sector

MONTREAL

A numerical global target for pesticide reduction in the agriculture sector is unnecessary and must be left for countries to decide, India has said at the UN biodiversity conference in Canada. India also supported subsidies for the agriculture sector.

Currently, more than 40% of India's total workforce is employed in agriculture, as per the World Bank data released till 2019.

Speaking during a high-level segment of the 15th Conference of Parties (COP15) to the Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD), Union Environment Minister Bhupender Yadav said that the agriculture sector in India, like other developing countries, is the source of 'life, livelihoods, and culture for hundreds of millions.'

"Such essential support to vulnerable sections cannot be called subsidies, and targeted for elimination," Yadav said. "While they are being rationalised, biodiversity must be promoted through positive investment," he said.

"Similarly, a numerical global target for pesticide reduction is unnecessary and must be left to countries to decide," the minister added.

The Target 7 of the Global Biodiversity Framework (GBF) includes the reduction of pesticides by at least two-thirds by 2030. A report by Pesticide Action Network (PAN) India released in February reveals serious problems of pesticide usage in India and points to poor regulation of hazardous agrochemicals.

The current use pattern is implicated in widespread unauthorised uses of pesticides in India, posing threat to food safety and environmental contamination, it said.

Proponents of the target state that redirecting harmful subsidies towards biodiversity financing would go a long way towards bridging the funding gap of around $700 billion a year.

A boy using pesticides in his field

Currently, India alone spends about $30 billion subsidising agricultural inputs, including pesticides.

The minister acknowledged that credible action is the source of strength and optimism in facing all global challenges including biodiversity.

He said despite India being home to 17% of the global population, but only 2.4% of the land area and only 4% of its water resources, the country is forging ahead in its efforts to protect biodiversity. PTI

Nobel laureate faces sexual abuse probe

WASHINGTON

A US university is investigating a Nobel laureate over sexual harassment allegations that the economist's attorney dismisses as 'professional rivalry.'

Philip Dybvig, who shared this year's Nobel Prize in economics for research into bank failures, has been questioned in the past several weeks by the Title IX office at Washington University in St. Louis, his lawyer Andrew Miltenberg said.

Miltenberg said the allegations are 'factually inaccurate.' Dybvig, a longtime banking and finance professor at the university, didn't immediately respond to an email message seeking comment.

Bloomberg reported that it has reviewed emails that show that the Title IX office, which handles campus sexual harassment complaints, has reached out to at least three former students since October to interview them about claims involving Dybvig. They're among a group of seven former students Bloomberg reported it had spoken with who allege Dybvig sexually harassed them.

Tore Ellingsen, chair of the Nobel's Economic Sciences Prize Committee, said the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, which oversees the awards, contacted the university to make sure they had a fair process to handle accusations. AP

Moldova suspends 6 TV channels over alleged misinformation

The broadcast licenses of six television channels in Moldova have been suspended over accusations of misinformation, inaccurate coverage of Russia's war in Ukraine, and "attempts to manipulate public opinion," authorities said

LACK OF CORRECT INFORMATION

The commission said the suspensions were made after a review by Moldova's Audiovisual Council found a "lack of correct information in the coverage of national events, but also of the war in Ukraine"

It also said the suspensions aim to "prevent the risk of disinformation ... or attempts to manipulate public opinion"

Four of the six suspended channels—First in Moldova, RTR Moldova, NTV Moldova, and TV6—regularly re-transmit programmes from Russian TV channels that on Friday were banned by the European Council as part of a fresh wave of sanctions against Russia

SUSPENDED CHANNELS

The decision to revoke the licenses of the channels First in Moldova, RTR Moldova, Accent TV, NTV Moldova, TV6 and Orhei TV was announced late on Friday by Moldova's Commission for Exceptional Situations, which was established after Russia's invasion of neighbouring Ukraine

GOVT HAILS SUSPENSION

Moldovan President Maia Sandu hailed decision, saying they are vital steps to prevent attempt to destabilise the country

ATTACK ON PRESS FREEDOM

TV6 called the suspension 'totally unfounded' and "an unprecedented attack on freedom of expression, editorial freedom (and) freedom of journalists"

The commission's argument "is not only totally unfounded but also downright false," the channel said in a statement posted on Facebook

Some of the suspended channels are owned by people close to Ilan Shor, a fugitive Moldovan oligarch who leads the Russia-friendly Shor Party. The party in recent months has organised large protests in Moldova's capital, Chisinau, against the pro-Western govt

We cannot accept that in this challenging period, the security of the state and the peaceful life of citizens are endangered by fugitives who want only one thing—to escape justice

Twitter restores accounts of journalists

SAN FRANCISCO

ELON Musk has reinstated the Twitter accounts of several journalists who were suspended after he accused them of endangering his family, with some of those targeted tweeting on Saturday they were back on the platform.

Musk had drawn anger and warnings from the EU and UN after suspending the accounts of more than half a dozen prominent journalists from the New York Times, CNN and the Washington Post.

"The people have spoken. Accounts who doxxed my location will have their suspension lifted now," the Twitter owner tweeted late Friday.

Musk carried out a Twitter poll asking whether he should restore the suspended accounts now or in a week's time. Nearly 59% of the 3.69 million who took part said he should restore the accounts now.

Some of the suspended accounts appeared to have been reactivated, with former Vox journalist Aaron Rupar tweeting again.

"I was pretty bummed about getting suspended initially but quickly realised it'd be fine because I'm blessed to have an amazing online community," Rupar posted, thanking people for their support.

Later on MSNBC Rupar warned that Twitter's crackdown, even if temporary, would have a "chilling effect on coverage of Elon Musk" and make reporters think twice about running afoul of the firm's new owner.

The accounts of some other journalists remained suspended early Saturday, including those of Business Insider's Linette Lopez and former MSNBC anchor Keith Olbermann.

The latest controversy began on Wednesday when Musk suspended @elonjet, an account that tracked flights of his private plane.

Musk said the move was necessary after a car in Los Angeles carrying one of his children was followed by 'a crazy stalker' and seemed to blame the jet tracking for the incident.

Some of the journalists had reported on the affair, including tweets linking to the suspended @elonjet account, which Musk said amounted to offering 'assassination coordinates' against him and his family. AFP

Attack on Indian rival

Twitter also suspended its Indian rival Koo. Mayank Bidawatka, Koo's co-founder wrote, "I forgot. There's more! Banning Mastodon account... Banning Koo's eminence handle. I mean seriously. How much more control does the guy need?"

Concerns remain: UN

The UN rights chief said that Musk's decision to reinstate the Twitter accounts of several journalists was welcome news, but warned that 'serious concerns remain.' "Good news that journalists are being reinstated Twitter, but serious concerns remain," Turk said.

Thailand's king and queen test positive for Covid-19

Thailand's king and queen have tested positive for Covid-19, and so far have only mild symptoms, the royal palace said Saturday. Doctors prescribed treatment for King Maha Vajiralongkorn, 70, and Queen Suthida, 44, and requested them to refrain from duties for a while, the Royal Household Bureau said in a statement. Their symptoms are "very mild," the statement said. Earlier Friday and Thursday, the couple visited Princess Bajrakitiyabha Mahidol at Chulalongkorn Hospital in Bangkok, where she was admitted after she fell unconscious due to a heart problem on Wednesday.

Body of a toddler pulled from rubble of latest Russian strike on Ukraine

KYIV

EMERGENCY crews pulled the body of a toddler from the rubble in a pre-dawn search for survivors on Saturday of a Russian missile strike that tore through an apartment building in the central Ukrainian city of Kryvyi Rih.

The missile was one of what Ukrainian authorities said were 16 that eluded air defenses among the 76 missiles fired on Friday in the latest Russian attack targeting Ukrainian energy infrastructure, part of Moscow's strategy to leave Ukrainian civilians and soldiers in the dark and cold this winter.

Governor Valentyn Reznichenko of the Dnipropetrovsk region, where Kryvyi Rih is located, wrote on the Telegram social media app that "rescuers retrieved the body of a 1-1.5-year-old boy from under the rubble of a house destroyed by a Russian rocket." In all, four people were killed in the strike, and 13 injured—four of them children.

Reznichenko said the pounding from Russia continued overnight, damaging power lines and houses in the cities and towns of Nikopol, Marhanets and Chervonohryhorivka.

These cities are situated across the Dnieper River from the Russian-occupied Zaporizhzhia nuclear power plant.

Meanwhile, the Kremlin on Saturday confirmed that Russian President Vladimir Putin huddled a day earlier with armed forces commanders, which includes Defense Minister Sergei Shoigu, chief of general staff, Valery Gerasimov. He also spoke with commanders from different branches. AP

Peru in flux as Congress rejects bid to advance polls

LIMA

PERU'S embattled President Dina Boluarte said on Saturday she would not step down in the face of violent protests over her predecessor's ouster as she called on lawmakers to bring forward elections as a way to quell unrest. "What is solved by my resignation? We will be here, firmly, until Congress determines to bring forward the elections," Boluarte said, a day after lawmakers voted against a bill to hold elections next December, more than two years early.

Peru's Congress has rejected an attempt to bring forward elections as deadly protests left thousands of tourists stranded in the gateway city to Machu Picchu. Protesters are demanding the release of ousted president Pedro Castillo, the resignation of his successor Boluarte and fresh elections.

But Congress voted against a bill to bring forward elections by more than two years from 2026 to December 2023.

Health minister Rosa Gutierrez said 18 people have been killed in clashes since Castillo was arrested on December 7. Two cabinet ministers resigned on Friday in protest at the deaths. AFP

7 children among Malaysia landslide victims, toll 24

BATANG KALI

RESCUE workers scoured muddy terrain for survivors and bodies on Saturday as the death toll from a landslide at an unauthorised campsite in Malaysia rose to 24, including seven children, authorities said.

Nine people were still missing after a predawn landslide hit the site located at an organic farm near the town of Batang Kali just outside the capital Kuala Lumpur on Friday.

Selangor state fire and rescue director Norazam Khamis said the chances of finding survivors in the mud and debris a day after the disaster were "slim." Officials said there had been more than 90 people, most of them asleep, at the campsite near a mountain casino resort when the landslide struck.

As many as 61 people had been found safe or rescued. Two of the victims were "believed to be a mother and her child in a state of embrace buried under the earth", Norazam told reporters.

The farm did not have a licence to run a campsite. Prime Minister Anwar Ibrahim visited the area and said financial aid would be given to the families of those killed or injured in the disaster. Selangor state chief minister Amirudin Shari tweeted that all picnic and camping sites in the state would be closed for a week.

Landslides are common in Malaysia after heavy rains, which are regular at the end of the year. However, there was no heavy rains in the area on the night of the disaster. Nor Shahidah Mohd Nazer, a geology expert from the National University of Malaysia, described the landslide as unprecedented under the circumstances — involving a gentler slope and not following heavy rain. AFP

Infosys' succession plan: Is there Plan B?

Since last five years, the company's succession planning is being discussed; in 2022, when it is celebrating its 40 years, the matter still remains unresolved

UMA KANNAN @Bengaluru

IN 2017, when Infosys' first non-founder CEO Vishal Sikka left the organisation, several questions were raised on the succession planning in Indian corporates. One of the co-founders of Infosys, Nandan Nilekani, who led the implementation of Aadhaar programme, was appointed by the board of directors to lead the company. His return was a kind of dramatic comeback as he was called back to steer the corporation. Nilekani had served as the company's CEO from 2002 to 2007.

After five years, now in 2022, at a time when the company is celebrating its 40 years, the its succession planning is still being discussed. Reacting to a question on succession concerns, Infosys co-founder NR Narayana Murthy said he was completely wrong in keeping away the next-generation of the promoter group out of the company.

His previous view was to keep family members of co-founders away. In 2014, Murthy decided to leave the company and his son Rohan also left the company after serving as his father's executive assistant. However, Rohan's role was only that of the assistant and he had no leadership role.

Apart from Rohan, no other promoters' children have worked at Infosys, as the company's policy has been to keep family members away from any leadership role.

Murthy said he embraced the idea as he was afraid that some people may bring undeserving candidates and put them in positions.

Nilekani said, "I will be handing over to a chairman, at whatever point I exit from the scene, who will be a non-founder. Now, there is no plan B. In case you hand it over to someone and it doesn't work out, there is no plan B."

Murthy also said that the company has to flourish for at least 100 years.

No paternalistic practices

Peter Bendor- Samuel, CEO of Everest Group, a research firm, disagrees with Murthy's view.

He said bringing in a family to take over would have been a disaster and that his attempt to do that with his son didn't work out well.

"He and other founders created a highly professional firm based on meritocracy, introducing paternalistic practices undermines this," he told this newspaper.

He argues strongly that Infosys has a strong bench of leaders and several of which could take over. "If you look more broadly to the Infosys diaspora there are many more very capable leaders who could be tapped to return," he said, adding succession planning is always complicated, and it is always a risk as you move to new leaders. Samuel says that Infosys is better positioned than most global firms.

According to him, Nandan (Nilkeni) is a very special talent and will be hard to replace. "He seems to have reconciled to extending his role at Infosys for a few years. But at the end of the day everyone can be replaced and if Infosys wants to really take up its role as a global leader there are several strong candidates who could do well in the role some of which are not Indian but even if the Board wanted to keep the Indian roots there are good options," he said.

While Akshata Murthy holds 0.93% stake in Infosys, as per the shareholding pattern as of September 2022, Rohan Murty holds 1.45%. Nilekani's daughter Janhavi has 0.20% stake in the top IT company. Since Janhavi transferred shares to her son, Tanush Nilekani Chandra now holds 0.08 or 33,56,017 shares. The total promoter holdings stand at 15.16%.

Bench strength

Samuel said succession of a leading global firm is always risky. "However, Infosys has a strong internal bench which can be groomed and a very strong set of former Infosys executives who now have proven themselves by running other firms which could also be tapped if they want to keep succession to those executives with Infosys experience. There are also candidates outside the Infosys family which would do well," he said.

The current bench is moving on as there is no immediate prospect of them becoming the CEO as the present CEO Salil Oarekh will continue till March 2027.

Apart from Salil, the second largest IT company has other prominent executives including CFO Nilanjan Roy and President Mohit Joshi. As chairman of Edgeverve System, Joshi leads the company's software business that includes banking platform Finacle.

Infosys has many other leaders including Anantha Radhakrishnan, who is the CEO and MD of Infosys BPM, the wholly-owned subsidiary of Infosys.

This year, Infosys BPM completed two decades and has an employee strength of 50,000. In 2020, Infosys BPM crossed $1 billion in revenues.

Aditya Narayan Mishra, MD and CEO of CIEL HR Services said that well-governed companies will have processes and must have enough checks and balances to make sure that nepotism is prevented.

"This is easier said than done. Assuming that the scion of an entrepreneur is interested to work in the company and is seen to be competent by the Board or its representative body, he or she must not be disadvantaged in any way. We must not deny him or her the opportunities to work for the company," he added.

Murthy had kept family members of co-founders away

Narayana Murthy's previous view was to keep family members of co-founders away. In 2014, Murthy decided to leave the company and his son Rohan left the company after serving as his father's executive assistant.

GST Council meet avoids key contentious issues

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

THE 48th GST Council meeting avoided some of the key issues. The much-talked about issue of taxation on casinos, online gaming and horse racing was not even included in the final agenda of the meeting.

The Group of Ministers, headed by Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad Sangma, had submitted a report on the issue on Thursday, and it was expected that the Council would discuss the long-pending issue.

However, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, who is the head of the GST Council, said that the GoM report on the issue was submitted only a couple of days ago and it needed to be circulated first before taking it up for discussion.

The report of the GoM on casino, race course and online gaming is now proposed to be tabled before the next GST Council meeting for discussion.

The key issues are on the rate that should apply on these activities and whether the tax would be levied on only fees charged by the portal or the entire consideration.

The council also deferred the discussion on setting up of GST Tribunals on the basis of a report from a GoM.

"This further delays the redressal mechanism of disputes at the ground and will continue to lead to a further increase in the number of Writ appeals at the High Courts. This has been a long pending ask from Industry that needs to be addressed soon," says Mahesh Jaising, Partner, Leader – Indirect Tax, Deloitte India.

Capacity-based taxation on Tobacco and gutkha was another issue that the council avoided for now. The council, however, made some important clarifications. No GST is payable where the residential dwelling is rented to a registered person if it is rented in his/her personal capacity for use as his/her own residence and on his own account and not on account of his business.

Mechanism for ITC reversal suggested

Council recommended to prescribe mechanism for reversal of input tax credit by a registered person in the event of non-payment of tax by the supplier by a specified date and mechanism for re-availment of such credit, if the supplier pays tax subsequently.

The Council recommended to prescribe the mechanism for reversal of input tax credit by a registered person in the event of non-payment of tax by the supplier by a specified date and mechanism for re-availment of such credit, if the supplier pays tax subsequently.

Abhishek Jain, Partner, indirect tax, KPMG India, says there is no procedure for claim of refund of tax borne by the unregistered buyers in cases where the contract/ agreement for supply of services like construction of flat/house and long-term insurance policy is cancelled and the time period of issuance of credit note by the concerned supplier is over. "In this regard, the Council recommended amendment in CGST Rules, 2017, along with issuance of a circular, to prescribe the procedure for filing application of refund by the unregistered buyers in such cases." "This change will allow the unregistered buyers to get a refund of the GST where supply has not taken place, and will help avoid unnecessary cost burden."

According to Vivek Jalan, Partner, Tax Connect Advisory, a multi-disciplinary tax consultancy firm, this is the inception of a new era, it seems where the reverse charge list of goods starts getting heavier. "Reverse charge as we know is applicable to items which are mainly in the unorganized sector prone to evasion."

"Now if we see these two items together a demand from metals industry comes to the fore for bringing Steel and other Metal Scrap GST rate at 0.1% or other concessional rate on reverse charge to reduce tax evasion as well as support Businesses in the metal scrap business. Possibly going forward these would also be brought into reverse charge."

Auto industry welcomes clarification on SUV cess

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

THE GST Council has clarified the definition of SUVs (sports utility vehicles) for levy of 22% compensation cess and decided to come up with parameters to define MUVs (multi utility vehicles).

Finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman clarified that the higher rate of compensation cess of 22% is applicable to a motor vehicle fulfilling all four conditions — has engine capacity exceeding 1,500cc; length exceeding 4,000 mm; has ground clearance of 170 mm and above; it is popularly known as SUV.

"So this clarification is not new tax, it's more to say what defines commodity which is under taxation as SUV," she said. She added that the discussion on MUVs began when some states asked whether sedans be included in SUV category. The states suggested bringing in a definition for MUVs. She said the Council decided if any other vehicle categories need to be added to the 22% cess, the panel of central and state tax officers (or the Fitment Committee) will look into it. "This has brought in a clarity that higher rate of compensation cess of 22%, over and above 28% of GST, would be applicable only if such vehicles meet all four conditions. This is on the lines of SIAM's recommendations and based on earlier discussions SIAM had with the ministry of finance," auto lobbying body Siam said.

Qatar FIFA WORLD CUP FINALS 2022

LAST DANCE

SEEKING IMMORTALITY

ONLY ONE AMONG FRANCE OR ARGENTINA WILL ADD A THIRD STAR ON THEIR JERSEY. A LOOK AT THE WORLD CUP FINAL...

Our weapons and our strengths will be defined by all our players, and not only by these two players (Lionel Messi & Kylian Mbappe). Messi is doing very well and we hope we win. — Lionel Scaloni, Argentina coach

ARGENTINA
Since losing their first game against Saudi Arabia, Argentina have grown into the tournament, taking 2-0 leads in each of their last five games. But they do retain some capacity to make iffy decisions when put under pressure (Australia and Netherlands showed that).

FRANCE
They haven't been as secure at the back as they were four years ago but they are still a side capable of flicking a switch at a moment's notice. At this World Cup, they have been the ultimate team of moments. They will back themselves to do that again.

Messi vs Hernandez
Irrespective of where Messi starts, he will drift towards the right to pick up the play. Theo Hernandez, who has scored as well as assisted in this edition, has been a big attacking weapon but defensively, like he showed against Bukayo Sako, he is suspect. Expect this battle to have a big bearing.

Molina vs Mbappe
The Argentine full-back has one of the most difficult jobs in world football on Sunday, tracking Mbappe. He may have some support from the midfielders but that may not be enough. The other aspect is it significantly affects Argentina's attacking output as Molina may not necessarily overlap all that.

De Paul vs Griezmann
The French attacker, Antoine Griezmann, has been one of the best players at this World Cup, stepping into a new role in the absence of Paul Pogba. He has assisted a few goals and has popped up all the place, from the centre circle to making line-breaking forward runs. It will be De Paul's job to be his shadow.

Otamendi vs Giroud
Giroud has picked up four goals and isn't as physical as his frame suggests. But he is very adept with his feet and likes to link up play. Otamendi likes a physical battle but he will have be on his toes to be alert to Giroud's cute passes as he likes to bring wide runners into the box.

Croatian knowhow trumps Morocco in third-place contest

AFP @ Doha

CROATIA defeated Morocco 2-1 in the World Cup third place play-off on Saturday, with Mislav Orsic curling home the winner.

Josko Gvardiol, one of the stars of the tournament in Qatar, headed Croatia into the lead in the seventh minute at the Khalifa International Stadium but Achraf Dari brought Morocco level right away.

Orsic's terrific curling strike late in the first half ensured Croatia took home the bronze medal, the 11th World Cup in a row a European team has finished third.

Morocco, the first World Cup semi-finalists in history, had signalled their intent with a spirited display against 2018 runners-up Croatia in their opening game in Qatar.

The rematch was nothing like the cagey 0-0 draw in the group stage, with Morocco goalkeeper Yassine Bounou dangerously close to passing the ball into his own net early on. Croatia soon surged in front from a well-rehearsed free-kick as Ivan Perisic nodded Lovro Majer's clip into the box back towards a diving Gvardiol, who planted his header into the corner.

But Morocco hit back two minutes later when Hakim Ziyech's free-kick looped up off the head of Majer, allowing Dari to head past Dominik Livakovic.

Andrej Kramaric headed straight at Bounou, who then did well to scoop the ball to safety as Marko Livaja closed in after spilling a drive from Luka Modric.

Orsic curled in brilliantly via the post from the corner of the box to put Croatia back on top before half-time after 18-year-old Morocco debutant Bilal El Khannouss lost the ball deep in his half.

Orsic again went close moments after the restart, his goalbound effort brushing Jawad El Yamiq and fizzing narrowly past the post.

Croatia were furious when Gvardiol tumbled inside the area when his foot appeared to be caught by Sofyan Amrabat, but there was no VAR review. It could have proved a match-changing moment had Youssef En-Nesyri found a way past Livakovic, who spread himself superbly to block the striker from close range. Mateo Kovacic put wide with the chance to put the game beyond doubt. Morocco had a late penalty appeal turned down.

Defining moments

Josko Gvardiol puts Croatia ahead in the seventh minute, but Achraf Dari evens the score in the ninth.

Mislav Orsic curls one from the corner of the box to help Croatia restore lead just before half-time. Croatia manage to hold on to the lead this time.

Deschamps, France feeling 'alone' ahead of decider

AP @ Doha

FRANCE coach Didier Deschamps knows most neutrals want Argentina to win the World Cup final to give Lionel Messi the perfect send-off from soccer's biggest tournament. In fact, Deschamps even believes some people in France hope that happens, too. "I'm fine being alone in the world — that doesn't bother me," he said with a smile.

It feels like Deschamps and his France team have been up against it throughout the tournament. The World Cup started for France with a deluge of injuries, with Karim Benzema, Christopher Nkunku and Presnel Kimpembe getting ruled out to join Paul Pogba and N'Golo Kante on the sidelines. It is finishing with France's squad being further weakened by a virus that led to defender Dayot Upamecano and midfielder Adrien Rabiot missing the win over Morocco in the semifinals. In both the quarterfinals against England and the semifinals against Morocco, the French have come out strong to take a first-half lead and then been content to soak up pressure and play on the counterattack.

Can that also work against Argentina, with Messi in such scintillating form?

"Things always happen in a match for which you are not prepared," said France captain Hugo Lloris, who is looking to become the first man to captain a team to the World Cup title twice.

FINAL CHANCE TO ENTER WC FOLKLORE

Having won every other accolade, Messi will look to seize the moment & win football's greatest prize when Argentina take on France in final

AGENCIES @ Doha

THIRTY-seven club trophies, seven Ballon D'Or awards and six European Golden Boots. A Copa America title, an Olympic gold medal and a list of scoring and statistical records that may never be beaten. Over the course of an 18-year career Lionel Messi has, with one obvious exception, won the lot. And won it again and again. On Sunday, the 35-year-old Argentina captain has the chance to fill the last remaining hole on his CV: a World Cup winners' medal.

For Messi's most ardent admirers, victory over France at Doha's Lusail Stadium will settle the debate over where he ranks in the most exclusive inner sanctum of football's pantheon. Messi's career achievements to date have already earned him the right to be mentioned in the same breath as Pele, Diego Maradona, Alfredo Di Stefano and Johan Cruyff. Does a World Cup win on Sunday nudge him ahead of that exalted company? Some think it does. Others think he already stands alone.

"I don't have any doubt saying that: he is the best in history," was the verdict of Argentina coach Lionel Scaloni after Messi's virtuoso display in the 3-0 semifinal win over Croatia.

Former England captain Alan Shearer says he has long regarded Messi's compatriot Maradona as the greatest player of all time on the basis of his 1986 World Cup triumph in Mexico. "If Messi were to win it here, my view would change," Shearer told the BBC. A more nuanced view came from former Argentina striker Jorge Burruchaga, scorer of the winning goal — set up by Maradona — in the 1986 World Cup final victory over West Germany.

For Burruchaga, Messi has been the greatest player of an era where only Cristiano Ronaldo can rival his achievements. But the 60-year-old says comparisons with previous generations are futile. "Win or lose, Messi is not more or less than Maradona," Burruchaga said. "Messi is going to be in history whatever happens.

"There are five players in the past 70 years who can be considered the best in the world — Di Stefano, Johan Cruyff, Pele, Maradona and Messi.

Qatar's World Cup has been tarnished by controversy off the pitch but it concludes with the electrifying prospect of a final between two of global football's powerhouses.

France may need every hour available as kick-off looms after their camp was struck by illness, forcing a number of players to sit out training and giving coach Didier Deschamps an unwanted headache. Argentina and France are both aiming to win the trophy for the third time, with Les Bleus returning to the final four years after their triumph in Moscow.

Back-to-back titles would be a monumental achievement for the side coached by Deschamps -- the only teams to have done it previously are Italy in the 1930s and Pele's Brazil in 1958 and 1962. Yet that potential achievement is trumped by Messi's quest to win the ultimate prize in the game in what is almost certainly his final World Cup match.

Messi has been brilliant in his fifth World Cup as the team bounced back from a shock opening loss to Saudi Arabia, while his new sidekick, Julian Alvarez, has scored four times.

Aged 35 and driven by his desire to make up for defeat by Germany in the 2014 final, Messi has scored five goals and produced some sublime assists.

"I am really enjoying myself. I have felt happy throughout this World Cup," Messi said after Argentina's 3-0 semis win.

Les Bleus have returned to the final without ever really hitting top form and they now have to contend with illness in their camp. But will this World Cup be remembered as Messi's tournament, or will France be top dogs once again.

Les Bleus battle virus

France coach Didier Deschamps was sweating on the fitness of several key players on Saturday. "We are trying to take as many precautions as possible, to adapt as necessary and get on with it," Deschamps said at a press conference in Doha ahead of final. There was a more encouraging bulletin from the French camp later Saturday after all 24 members of Deschamps' squad took to the field at the start of a final team training. It was not clear if all players played a full part in the session, however, which was only open to the media for the first 15 minutes.

WC needs risk-takers, says former winner Klinsmann

DOHA: Former World Cup winner Jurgen Klinsmann said the tournament in Qatar has shown the need for risk-taking players such as Kylian Mbappe and Lionel Messi. Klinsmann, who won the trophy with West Germany in 1990, said it was vital to have players who could unlock defences. "You need to have players capable of going one against one, players who can get past defenders," Klinsmann said on Saturday. "Be risky, be courageous, because the middle of the field is so well-organised."

FIFA targets $11 billion in revenue through 2026 World Cup

DOHA: FIFA expects to earn $11 billion in the 2026 World Cup cycle with a 48-team men's tournament in North America set to deliver a big increase in revenue amid ongoing uncertainty about the exact match schedule. The four-year budget, which was presented Friday to the FIFA Council, foresees an almost 50% increase in income mainly tied to broadcasting and sponsorship deals, plus ticketing and hospitality at a tournament which will use several NFL stadiums. "We are bullish about the power of football," FIFA president Gianni Infantino said after the council meeting. "We are convinced that the impact of the game will be massive."

Argentina's 'spider' man Alvarez, the pride of his village

EDUARDO FERRARI
@ Calchin (Argentina)

JULIAN Alvarez has been a revelation for Argentina at the World Cup but back in his tiny home village the player nicknamed "Spider" is celebrated for his humility and hailed as a "hero" and "ambassador".

Having started the Qatar tournament as a substitute, Alvarez has forced his way into the starting line-up through a series of match-winning displays that have seen him bag four goals. The 22-year-old is a near certain to start — and perhaps star — in Sunday's final against France. "At seven years old he was a very supportive, responsible and studious boy, given to help his companions," Patricia Magnino, one of Alvarez's teachers at the Rivera Indarte primary school in Calchin, told AFP.

"Now he's a star, a great, alongside (Lionel) Messi."

Another of his former teachers, Graciela De Barberis added: "He always stood out for his humility and speaking little. Dreams come true if you work for them."

Calchin, which means 'salty spot' in the local vernacular, is a humble village of 3,000 people located in the northeast of the rich rural and industrial province of Cordoba. At the entrance to the village and on the school walls there are billboards praising "Julian, the pride of Calchin," alongside depictions of large spiders.

Julian Alvarez (R) has scored four goals and has been a vital cog for team | AP

Every building in the grid-like village is a single storey, with roads lined with trees such as white quebrachos, pines, carobs and chanares.

It is deathly quiet in the village, aside from the sounds of a few metal workshops. The surrounding area is fields of grain and livestock.

Alvarez was nicknamed the spider because of his ability to control a football and send it into the back of the net, like a spider catching a fly and confining it to its web.

His two goals in Tuesday's 3-0 quarterfinal victory over Croatia added to previous strikes against Poland and Australia.

He began playing for his local Club Atletico Calchin whose stadium has just one main stand which can hold only 150 people.

On Sunday, Alvarez will play in front of almost 89,000 fans in Doha's Lusail stadium.

Melbourne derby abandoned after goalkeeper attacked

An A-League soccer match between rivals Melbourne City and Melbourne Victory was abandoned Saturday after fans invaded the field and attacked City goalkeeper Tom Glover. Fans from the Melbourne Victory area of the stadium rushed the pitch just after the 20-minute mark of the game at AAMI Stadium. City led 1-0 when the match was stopped.

SHINING STARS ON THE RISE

The World Cup is the biggest marketplace in football. Perform well in front of a global audience and chances are that Europe's leading clubs will soon come calling. With the transfer window opening in January, some of the youngsters have helped themselves with an impressive show. A look...

GONCALO RAMOS, PORTUGAL

Arguably no player made more of a spectacular impact at the WC than Ramos. As a surprise replacement for Ronaldo in Portugal's lineup against Switzerland in round of 16, he went on to score a hat trick. The 21-year-old Benfica forward has earned admirers after scoring 14 goals for his club before heading off to Qatar. After producing a performance like that on the biggest stage, his stock will have risen even higher.

JOSKO GVARDIOL, CROATIA

The addition of a protective mask, following a pre-tournament facial injury, made Gvardiol an even more daunting sight for oppositions. The 20-year-old Croatian put up standout performances against Belgium & Brazil. The RB Leipzig defender has already been linked with a number of top European clubs and it feels like a matter of time before the big move. An abiding memory of his WC might be when he was turned inside out by Lionel Messi in the buildup to Argentina's third goal in the 3-0 win against Croatia.

JUDE BELLINGHAM, ENGLAND

Bellingham was already expected to be one of the most sought-after players in Europe, with Manchester United, Man City, Liverpool and Paris Saint-Germain among his admirers. His club, Borussia Dortmund, is renowned for selling its star players and Bellingham, 19, is next in line. He lived up to all the hype in Qatar with standout performances for England. The only question now appears to be just how much money it will take to win the race for the teenager.

CODY GAKPO, NETHERLANDS

PSV Eindhoven forward Gakpo was already on Manchester United's radar and that interest could be renewed in January after Ronaldo's exit. His three goals in the group stage highlighted his potential to be a prolific striker, which is precisely what United coach Erik ten Hag wants to add to his team. Gakpo is a very modern forward, who can operate in wide positions or more centrally, which will appeal to a lot of clubs. "Things can change, but Cody has everything it takes to become a star," said Netherlands coach Louis van Gaal.

AZZ-EDDINE OUNAHI, MOROCCO

Midfielder, Ounahi, certainly made an impression on former Spain coach Luis Enrique. "He can really play," Enrique said after Morocco beat Spain on penalties in the round of 16. "He didn't stop running, he must be exhausted." Ounahi, 22, is technically gifted on the ball and appears to have boundless energy to get around the field. He looks like a complete midfielder. Currently playing for the bottom placed team in the French first division, Angers, he could be one of the big movers after the World Cup.

Perry makes merry as Oz seal series 3-1

MUMBAI: Ellyse Perry smashed yet another half-century (72 n.o) as Australia beat India by seven runs in the fourth T20I to seal the five-match series 3-1.

Alyssa Healy had to retire, and Tahlia McGrath got out, but Perry, first with Ashleigh Gardner (42) and then with Grace Harris (27) took apart the Indian bowlers as the tourists finsihed with 188/3 in 20 overs at the CCI Brabourne stadium on Saturday.

In reply, India lost the openers early, but skipper Harmanpreet Kaur kept them in the chase with a 30-ball 46 before Richa Ghosh took over.

Coming in at 121/4, the 19-year-old went berserk, hitting a 19-ball 40. With 20 runs needed in the final over, Richa got to face only two deliveries as the hosts missed yet another opportunity to get across the line, falling short by seven runs. Brief scores: Australia 188/3 in 20 ovs (Perry 72 n.o) bt India 181/5 in 20 ovs (Richa 40, Harmanpreet 46). Axar in the thick of things

Left-arm spinner strikes thrice to put india in command on Day 4

GOMESH S @Chennai

R ASHWIN had just removed centurion Zakir Hasan. The southpaw had been the core for Bangladesh in the second inning. He had batted with restraint, control and had taken calculated risks to get to the three-figure mark on his debut. Minutes after the celebration, a momentary lapse of concentration led to his downfall — a loopy delivery that took the inside edge before ballooning up off his pad and ending up in Virat Kohli's hands at first slip. It was a breakthrough that dented the position of the hosts. Chasing a mammoth 513, they were 208/3 before Zakir got out in the third session on Saturday.

But joining Mushfiqur Rahim was Shakib Al Hasan — the two OG Test batters of the country. After all, these two scored the first and second double hundreds. And Shakib did not take any time to turn the heat on. He survived an LBW appeal, tonked Axar Patel over long-on, not once but twice all in the same over. The left-arm spinner, known for his control, did what he does best. He and Ashwin kept it tight, giving just six runs in the next four overs with a ball that was over 80 overs old. Ashwin continued with the new ball, and nothing really changed. From the other end, it worked better for Axar as the lanky left-arm spinner was able to extract extra bounce and turn the odd ball. Umesh Yadav replaced Ashwin, Rishabh Pant dropped Mushfiqur. Then came the perfect delivery from Axar.

As the brand new red cherry left Axar's hand, it landed on middle and off on the good length, turned sharply to remove the off-stump of Mushfiqur. It was almost as if he was controlling the trajectory with the thread. In fact, it was not even the first time he pulled off such a dismissal on the day. In the second session, Axar had executed the same to uproot the stumps off Yasir Ali. Such has been the control of his lines and lengths that there is very little margin of error for any batter to capitalise on. What more, he is most dangerous on surfaces where the odd ball spins, for the arm ball is his go to delivery. He had shown it in his debut against England in Chennai. When it turns square, the arm ball becomes even more lethal as it did in Ahmedabad. Since his debut, no spinner (minimum 10 innings) has a better strike rate than Axar (35.4).

It is no surprise that India's bowling coach was pleased with the spinner's effort. "What really stood out with Axar was the pace that he bowled with. It's not easy for the batters to step out to him, also the angle he created and the way he released the ball. It's very difficult for the batters to decide whether to leave it or play it, especially where the ball was turning a little bit, you have to play those deliveries," said Paras Mhambrey after the day's play.

Three balls after Mushfiqur's dismissal, Pant made up for his gaffe in the previous over with a stumping — to get rid of Nurul Hasan — that surely took everyone to the past decade. To be precise, it was MS Dhoni-esque. And just like that, another wicket in Axar's tally. Shakib did go on a counterattacking spree, taking the hosts to 272/6, but if the way Axar and his fellow spinners bowled was anything to go by, the visitors could wrap up proceedings soon enough on the final day.
